HOOVER, GARNER CLASH ON RELIEF

President Rejects Direct Aid But Favors Other Measures of Texan.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(UP)—Views sharply conflicting and yet in partial agreement on how best to deal with the nation's human relief problem were spoken today by two leaders, President Hoover and Speaker Garner.

Before the senate, Mr. Hoover appealed for approval of his program which would give the Reconstruction Finance Corporation authority to make loans "for advancement of sound projects that will increase employment, but safeguarded by requirement that some portion of outside capital is also provided."

He flatly rejected the Garner $1,200,000,000 public building plan and the $100,000,000 direct federal relief fund. But at the same time he favored increasing the Finance Corporation's capitalization to $3,000,000,000 to aid states, agriculture and private enterprise which is contained in the Garner program.

The speaker went before the house with a means committee and yet in partial agreement on how best to deal with the nation's human relief problem were spoken today by two leaders, President Hoover and Speaker Garner.

"Mercy Money" Asked.

A reservoir of "mercy money" and leadership of the federal government in furnishing employment through public building construction was Garner's plea shortly before the president made his surprise address to the senate in which he said he had "not been able to favor the expansion of public works beyond the program already proposed in the budget."

Arguing for his proposition to remove restrictions on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to permit it to make loans to private enterprise, Garner said it would compel the banks to lend their money because of competition.

"The individual enterprise cannot be expected to be able to borrow from the banks when the Pennsylvania railroad is so badly off that it has to come to the Reconstruction Finance

Normal rates of the Connally amendment are four percent on the first $4,000 of taxable income and eight percent above that, with surtaxes beginning at one percent on incomes of $6,000 and graduating to 55 percent on incomes over $100,000.

Present normal rates are one and a half percent on the first $4,000; three percent on the next $4,000, and five above. Surtax rates begin with one percent at $10,000 and graduate to 20 percent at $100,000.

House bill normal rates are 2, 4 and 7 percent, respectively, with surtaxes beginning with one percent at $6,000 and graduating to 45 percent on incomes over $100,000.

Exemptions are $1,000 for a single person and $2,000 for married persons in both house and senate bills. Present exemptions are $1,500 and $3,000, respectively.

Corporation for its loans," Garner would be on my conscience and yours, too.

"Pork Barrel" Legislation.

Garner attacked President Hoover's declaration that his program was "pork barrel" legislation and recalled various projects made by the chief executive in 1928 sponsoring a $3,000,000,000 program to be placed into effect in times of unemployment.

"If it was his belief then, how can it be charged that members of congress are advocating pork barrel legislation in 1932?" he asked.

Discussing his proposal to broaden the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Garner said:

"Under the original act, the farmers have been able to borrow and so have the big fellows—the banks, insurance companies, railroads, but the corporate interests have not been able to secure loans."

"I propose in this bill to close that gap so that those corporate interests will be enabled to borrow. If you can't get the money from the banks, this money to make these proposed loans, then you should appeal the original act."

Bankers' Opposition.

"I can't conceive why you would not want to take the bridge off, to use a western term. I know of no one who could oppose such a measure," the Texan added.

SENATE PROOPS NEW TAX BILL

Sales Levy Definitely Rejected Despite Personal Hoover Plea.

termination to administration appeals advanced personally by the president and Secretary Mills for an eleventh-hour addition of $100,000,000 of new revenue to make sure the government will pay its own way next year.

It was further proposed that the income tax be a one-cent-a-gallon levy on gasoline and a three-cent power tax on gross receipts of electric power companies.

Curtis Ropes Action.

The senate voted 51 to 30, to change the revenue exemption for large insurance companies from the interest rate at which policy reserves are actually maintained to 3-3-4 percent.

Without a record vote it then approved a unanimous amendment to make the exemption 4 percent for companies using that rate.

The President Curtis began "railroading" the individual amendments as the hour grew late.

A proposal by Senator Copeland, democrat, of New York, exempting medicine from the 2-cent-a-gallon levy on mineral waters was declared approved by the vice president over the protest of Chairman Smoot.

Amusement of the members who believed the shout of "no" had been more vociferous than the "yes."

Glenn explained that under existing law, the government could not deduct the profits as income tax where it could be under his proposal it could confiscate the earnings of criminals.

He referred to "vice and iniquity, organized gambling syndicates that rob the common laboring men of their wages, beer rings, liquor rings," and other criminal activities as piling up great profits.

"Huge profits running into millions and millions accrue through the sale of narcotics illegally," Glenn said.

Glenn's proposal changes the position of the government from being a partner in crime to that of confiscating every cent of the profits if they can be reached.

Proponents of the disputed sales levy gave up the battle and sought taxes on gasoline and upon consumers of domestic gas and electricity. This was defeated by the senate, 45 to 40.

100 PCT. TAX LEVIED ON ILLEGAL FUNDS

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(UP)—The senate tonight voted to put a 100 per cent tax on incomes earned through violations of state or federal laws.

DRY LEADERS DRAFT CAMPAIGN POLICIES

Enforcement on Constitutional Basis Seen as Tenor of Plan.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Organized prohibition leaders preparing for the political conventions and presidential campaign today worked in secret over a recapitulation of their opposition to all suggestions for change.

The national prohibition board of strategy, charged with full responsibility for the united drys' campaign for dry candidates and planks, assembled in the office of their chairman, Ernest H. Cherrington, in a building close to the capitol.

All who talked were eager to seem suggestions for prohibition revision advanced by individuals known as drys but unaffiliated with organizations. It was hinted that the statement the group is drafting will rest its case for enforcement on a constitutional basis.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary, said the statement would be made public "eventually." It will be presented, probably tomorrow, to the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment—representatives of 59 dry groups which created the board.

The drys also will name a committee to represent them at Chicago. They began today with work on their statement in the light of current talk about convention possibilities. Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, explained it would project "a sort of crossfire."

Dr. Arthur J. Barton, Wilmington, N. C., chairman of the conference, emphatically asserted a belief that the political parties "will hardly take a stand that would be offensive to the dry—and anything that would be even a sop to the wets would be unsatisfactory."

"If either party should embody a declaration for repeal it would invite sure and crushing defeat," he said. "I believe both will declare for enforcement. If they say there is a rising public opinion opposed to the amendment, we will ask them to show us that public opinion. If there be, such public opinion it can easily express itself in the election of senators and representatives."

Among the other participants today were Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the W. C. T. U.; Dr. F. Scott McBride, general secretary of the Anti-Saloon League; Dr. Eugene L. Crawford, secretary of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; Don C. Muller, of Tampa, Fla.; and Dr. Homer W. Tope.

Development of Appreciation of Beauty Needed, Mims Tells Agnes Scott Seniors

Development of a sense and appreciation of beauty was pointed to by Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English literature at Vanderbilt University, as one of the major educational needs of America, in his senior class address at the closing exercises of Agnes Scott College, Tuesday.

Dr. Mims discussed the aesthetics involved in living a more nearly perfect "ideal life." He condemned the ugly buildings, noises and colors that prevail in modern cities. Of the use of colors he stated that many did not know how to blend them harmoniously, especially on their faces, where the use became an art of concealing.

"The whole of living is turning a chaos into a cosmos of beauty. Inspired moments, whether they come through the forms of nature, art, or religion, are intimations of immortality," Dr. Mims said, concluding his optimistic reflections.

A message from the trustees of the college was given by Chairman J. K. Orr. The speakers were introduced by Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott, who presided over the exercises.

Miss Mary Ruth Roundtree, a student, sang two selections at the opening of the ceremonies. Scott's "The Wind in the South," and Henschel's "Morning Hymn."

Miss Andrevena Robinson, of Dayton, Tenn., was awarded a jewel by the faculty designating her as the senior "who most nearly approximates the ideals of the college." The ideals include "conspicuous loyalty to the institution, ideals of service, ability to co-operate, physical fitness, poise, and graciousness." The jewel given in honor of Miss Nannette Hopkins, dean of the college.

Students receiving piano, voice, art and other awards were Miss Marjorie Daniel, Senoia, Ga.; Miss Betty Hansey, Asheville, N. C.; Miss Gail Nelson, Atlanta; Miss Eva Poliakoff, Abbeville, S. C.; Miss Isabel Shuler, Greensboro, Ga.; Miss Florence Mangis, New York City; Miss Marilyn Tate, Ennis, Tenn.; Miss Julie Blundell, Yazoo City, Miss.; Miss Martha Skeen, Decatur; Miss Susan Glenn, Lincoln, N. C.; and Miss Virginia Pretton, S. C.

Miss Norma Lee, of Memphis, Tenn., was awarded a $700 scholarship for making the highest grade in a competitive entrance examination for freshmen. Miss Shirley Christian, of Chattanooga, Tenn., won the second prize, a $500 scholarship.

Receiving A. B. degrees with high honors were Miss Penelope Brown, Atlanta; Miss Irene Hartsell, Lakeland, Fla.; Miss Saxon Pope, Dublin, Ga.; and Miriam Thompson, Atlanta. Graduated with honors were Miss Susan Glenn, Lincoln, N. C.; Miss Rosemary Honker, Decatur; Miss Elizabeth Skeen, Decatur; Miss Elizabeth Sutton, Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Virginia Gray, Union, W. Va.; and Miss Ruth Green, Louisville, Ky.

Degrees were conferred upon Miss Virginia Allen, Frances Arnold, Catherine Baker, Sara Berry, Betty Bonham, Kathleen Bowen, Sarah Bowman, Mildred Braddy, Harriette Brantly, Penelope Brown, Mary Cantlon, Frances Crowell, Margaret Deaver, Mary Duke, Mary Dunbar, Diana Dyer, Mary Elliott, Grace Fincher, Mary Foster, Sarah Palmer, Marjorie Gamble, Susan Glenn, Nora Gray, Virginia Gray, Ruth Green, Eliza Greenfield, Julia Grinnett, Mildred Hall, Irene Hartsell, Virginia Herrin, Louise Hollingsworth, Sara Howell, Rosemary Honker, Anne Hopkins, Martha Howard, Alma Howerton, Imogene Hudson, Elizabeth Johnson, LeMoria Kane, Marie Kerison, Pansey Kimble, Margaret Kishner, Elsie Lee, Marguerite Link, Martha Logan, Clyde Lovely, Bernette Macdonald, Margaret Maness, Etta Mathis, Rebecca May, Mary Miller, Eugenia McDonald, Helen McMillan, Lila Norfleet, Maude Peoples, Virginia Petway, Saxon Pope, Jane Reed, Margaret Riddick, Jessie River, Andrevena Robinson, Mary Schlich, Dorothy Seay, Jean Shaw, Mary Skeen, Annie Smith, Sara Smith, Emily Squires, Lonnie Stakely, Amelia Nell Starr, Anna Sutton, Jura Taffer, Velma Taylor, Miriam Thompson, Olive Weeks, Catherine Wellborn, Sarah Williams, Martha Williamson, Della Wilson, Susan Wilson, Sarah Winslow, Louise Wise, Grace Woodward, Marjorie Woodward and Kathleen Wright.

CHURCHMAN SCORES ECONOMIC SYSTEM

DENVER, May 31.—(AP)—An indictment of the present day economic system was handed down to the 144th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States today. The Rev. Hugh Ivan Evans, of Dayton, Ohio, in submitting a report on national missions, under which department the committee on social and industrial relations operates, outlined current conditions and declared that "certainly this is an arraignment of the present economic system under which the trade of the world is maintained, which calls for immediate revisions and adjustment."

Missing in the final draft of the report was a provision calling for large scale economic and social planning. The final draft also eliminated a statement which placed three possibilities before the church and the nation—our present individualism, some form of socialism, or planned production after the pattern suggested by Chase, Swope, Soule and others.

"It is too dangerous a thing to present to the assembly," said Mr. Evans. "Probably the church cannot advocate a particular method in dealing with the economic crisis, but it can test all plans and practices by the spirit of the Gospel and it can make clear what ends are desirable in our economic life."

"Among these ends are economic security for all and a conscious approach to that economic liberty and equality which will make Christian brotherhood real."

STAFF CHANGES MADE BY CANDLER HOSPITAL

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 31.—Changes in the nursing staff of Warren A. Candler hospital here operated by the general hospital board were announced Tuesday by the Rev. Charles G. Earnest, superintendent, as follows:

Miss Martha L. Hood, of Memphis, Tenn., has been named superintendent of nurses to succeed Mrs. Margaret Preston. Miss Corinne Lewis of Savannah, is to be supervisor of the operating room. Miss Ossie Mayo Bailey, of Augusta, is to be instructor of nurses. Miss Caroline Adams, Maccon, becomes head nurse. These nurses retiring from these positions will go into hospital work elsewhere or private nursing.

Prince of Wales Highly Delighted With Amelia Earhart's Dancing

BY HENRY T. RUSSELL.

LONDON, May 31.—(UP)—The Prince of Wales danced with Amelia Earhart Putnam tonight and found the American flyer so skillful on her feet that he grumbled when they were practically forced to stop after fox-trotting through many numbers.

Miss Earhart arrived at the Derby ball at Grosvenor house shortly after the prince appeared at 11:15 p. m. She was wearing an apple-green satin dress that made her appear even taller than she is—and she is taller than the prince.

She was taken to the prince's table and he rose to greet her. Miss Earhart smiled and shook hands with him, nodding lightly in contrast to the deep curtsy of a titled British woman in the party.

The table was crowded and the prince gallantly offered his chair to Miss Earhart. She accepted and the heir to the British throne was forced into the background for 15 minutes while the party watched a "yo-yo" demonstration by the Canadian boy champion, Joe Young. Later the prince attempted to swirl the "yo-yo" and then asked Miss Earhart to dance.

He had danced with an English peeress earlier in the evening, but thereafter danced only with the American flyer.

The orchestra was playing "Home" when the prince began dancing with Miss Earhart. They kept on dancing through the next number, "Day by Day." Then the orchestra launched into a fast fox-trot, "The Tiger Rag."

They danced the third one and applauded loudly. The orchestra hesitated and decided that was enough. The dancers left the floor and the prince, grumbling, told Miss Earhart: "We need more like that."

The orchestra leader seemed to get the idea, and as the American flyer and her royal escort climbed the steps to a special enclosure the music began again. It was "The Tiger Rag" and the prince promptly led Miss Earhart back to the floor for the fourth dance.

They continued dancing through other numbers and it was not until the music ended that they stopped.

They hesitated and then walked slowly toward their table. An announcer asked the dancers to leave the ballroom for supper.

"That man is horrible, isn't he?" the prince asked Miss Earhart as he accompanied her to the supper room. Prince George and other distinguished persons were in the party.

Later, Miss Earhart was asked if the prince was a good dancer.

"Oh, my yes," she replied quickly. "Very good."

LESLIE BANK ROBBER GETS 4-YEAR TERM

AMERICUS, Ga., May 31.—L. H. Hancock, alleged leader of a bandit gang who held up and robbed the Bank of Leslie, near Americus, several weeks ago, was convicted in Sumter superior court Monday of automobile stealing. This sentence must be served by Hancock at the expiration of another sentence of four to six years imposed following a plea of guilty to the bank robbery charge.

11 PERSONS JAILED IN SHOOTING OF GIRL

COCHRAN, Ga., May 31.—(UP)—Eleven persons were taken into custody here Tuesday by Sheriff W. H. Jones and Deputies Segars and Legg in connection with the shooting of Miss Gladys Hendrix at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Hendrix, four miles south of here Sunday night. They range in age from 18 years to 42 years. No charge has been placed against any of them, pending a completion of the investigation, it was stated.

Columbus Starts Work On Municipal Stadium

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 31.—(UP)—Work of completing the municipal stadium got under way Tuesday when workmen began staking off the 200-foot entrance.

The work was supervised by C. L. Rhodes, county engineer. Immediately after the staking is completed and other preparations made, work of grading will get under way.

The present entrance represents the uncompleted part of the stadium and a great amount of earth will have to be moved from the north end before the first concrete is poured. The completion of the stadium is made possible by a fund of $5,000 raised by the City Federation of Women's Clubs. The sale of life-seats to citizens, plus interest on available funds.

All of Japan's Troops Out of Shanghai Area

SHANGHAI, China, May 31.—(AP) The bloody "Shanghai incident," which disturbed the world for almost three months early this year, was brought definitely to a close today when three army transports carried the last of the Japanese expeditionary force from Shanghai.

All that is left of the 100,000 Japanese soldiers who fought the several bloody battles of Chapel, Kiangwan, Woosung, Hongkew and other surrounding areas, are about 2,500 blue-jackets.

These constitute the regular garrison of the International Settlement, the same kind of force maintained here by other foreign governments.

W. CARLTON MOBLEY NOT TO MAKE RACE

Young Georgia Congressman's Decision Based on Lack of Time for Campaign.

FORSTH, Ga., May 31.—(P)—W. Carlton Mobley, congressman from the sixth Georgia district, announced Tuesday that he would not be a candidate for reelection in the new sixth district, in which he was elected by the 1931 apportionment, in opposition to Congressman Carl Vinson, of the old tenth, and Superior Court Judge R. Earl Camp.

Mobley, the youngest member of the lower branch of the national congress, was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Samuel Rutherford. Mobley was Rutherford's secretary. His term does not expire until March 4, 1933.

In announcing his decision not to be a candidate, the young congressman said he desired by making a statement to "release my friends of their pledges of support."

"It is needless to say," read Mobley's statement, "I have given consideration to making the race for the full term. Because it was impossible to ignore the requests coming from my friends in the old and new counties of the district. Also I must admit that I wish the circumstances were such that I might be given the opportunity of serving the people in the district long enough to prove my worth and that upmost in my mind and my principal desire is to be of some real genuine service to them."

"However, in view of the fact that the entrance fees for congress in the sixth district are about $2,000 and the further fact that since my election, all of my time has been taken up with official duties, and I have not had the opportunity to contact the people in the new counties of the district and will not have time to fully establish personal contact with them after coming home in July and before the primary, I have declined to make the race at this time."

HOROVITZ TRIAL DATE DOCKETED FOR JULY 8

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 31.—(P)—Hyman Horowitz, suspended clerk of the city market, will go on trial in Chatham superior court on embezzlement charges Friday, July 8, it was announced Tuesday from the office of Walter C. Hartridge, solicitor general.

The solicitor general's office fixed the date for the trial following the signing of a formal order by J. G. Meltrim Monday denying the motion of Shelby Myrick and Aaron Kravitch, attorneys for the market clerk, to quash the indictments charging Horowitz with embezzling market funds.

There are more than 100 witnesses in the Horowitz case, and it is expected the trial will last for several days.

Judge Meltrim has not yet made public his decision on the similar plea to quash the indictments against John T. Garity, assistant city clerk, also charged with embezzlement.

MISSION STUDY SCHOOL PLANNED IN TENNILLE

TENNILLE, Ga., May 31.—A mission study institute for the training of teachers will be held in Tennille June 28, 29, 30, it has been announced by Mrs. W. C. Little, of Tennille, mission study chairman of the E. central division, Georgia Baptist W. M. U. In this division there are approximately 350 societies, and a large number of them are expected to take the course, the chief feature of which will be instruction in the mission study handbook by Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth, Ga., a man of man, and the classes are the projects to illustrate this work.

The faculty will consist of Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Fred Smith, Augusta; Miss Mary Christian, Atlanta; Miss Florine Smith, Milledgeville, and Mrs. Little. The Tennille W. M. U. S. of which Mrs. Will Braxton is president, will be the hostess organization.

18TH DISTRICT GROUP LAUDS ROY HARRIS

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 31.—(P)—The democratic central district has endorsed the record of State Senator Roy V. Harris.

Mr. Harris represented the district in the last legislature as a resident of Louisville, Ga. He has now moved to Augusta.

Under the rotation system, it is Richmond county's turn to elect a senator this year. Richmond, Glascock and Jefferson counties comprise the district.

He is expected to be a candidate for reelection. William C. Fleming, Augusta attorney, formerly mayor of city council, has announced as a candidate for the same post, and has paid his entry fee.

5 Georgians Honored by Mercer University As 76 Get Degrees at Concluding Exercises

S. V. SANFORD.

MAJ. GEN. BLANTON WINSHIP.

R. C. GRESHAM.

Sanford, Winship, Gresham, Patterson and Newton Given Honorary Degrees.

MACON, Ga., May 31.—(P)—Mercer University awarded degrees to 76 applicants and conferred honorary degrees upon four of its distinguished sons and a former missionary Tuesday morning in quaint old Nunnally chapel, ending the ninety-ninth commencement of the venerable Baptist institution. Eugene R. Black, governor of the Sixth District Federal Reserve bank, delivered the baccalaureate address.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, and Major General Blanton Winship, judge advocate general of the United States army, received degrees of doctor of laws.

General Winship is the first general to be awarded the doctor of laws degree by Mercer since Robert E. Lee.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, Atlanta; R. C. Gresham, pastor of the First Baptist church, Moultrie, and A. Scott Patterson, retired missionary to Nigeria, British West Africa, who has noted as a simple pastor to country churches since 1928, were given degrees of the doctor of divinity. All the honorary degree recipients are Mercer graduates except Mr. Patterson, who attended the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

In his address, Mr. Black spoke of the "strenuous times" the world is now facing and named three factors needed. They were "Courage, character, and service to others."

"This is not the first time that the world has faced a crisis," he declared. "In the past they have been solved but that doesn't lessen the seriousness of the present crisis, and it does not offer a solution."

"I don't believe the world in all its history has faced conditions as exactly as they are today. There is not a raw producing country in the world that isn't flat broke; there isn't a raw producing section of our country that isn't flat broke; and anxiety are broadcast all over the world," Mr. Black continued.

"The world never solved any problem when it was afraid," he asserted in urging the graduates to be courageous. "We have the wrong idea of value. We have said what a man is worth in dollars and cents and not in character."

In connection with the third of the three requests, he said, he advocated, Mr. Black said, "The last three years have been an orgy, and we have paid. It had to come or we would have drifted from our moorings and find ourselves living in a realm of material things. I wonder why America forgot there were things higher than material things? We have paid for our quest for gold and silver."

Before delivering the diplomas to the seniors, Dr. Dowell welcomed them to the graduation and bade them go forth as "men." He used two sonnets of William Wordsworth as his theme.

James V. Metcalf, Atlanta, executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention, and Charles M. Cox, Camilla, graduating from the law school, were given the diplomas.

The awards were presented by the New York Southern Society, are made to persons whom the University considers most worthy of recognition for perpetuating the qualities which the late Mr. Sullivan displayed. The qualities in Mr. Sullivan which the award is based on are expressed as follows:

"An immaculate life devoted to averting fidelity to public and private trusts—he reached out both hands to help his fellow-man."

DESSIE TIFT COLLEGE SENIORS HEAR DR. KNIGHT OF ATLANTA

FORSTH, Ga., May 31.—Dr. W. B. Knight, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, Atlanta, gave the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Bessie Tift College Monday evening. President Aquila Hammon also spoke. Acting Dean R. B. Piggott conferred the degrees.

The class held its final meeting at 11 o'clock Monday morning when the class day exercises were held. Miss Virginia Mitchell, Abbeville, welcomed the friends and visitors to the college. President Chamlee responded in behalf of the faculty and board of trustees.

The class history was read by Miss Mel Gales, Mt. Vernon, and the farewell gifts were presented by Miss Elsie Palmer, of Camilla. Little Bill Hill, Forsyth, class mascot, was presented with a silver loving cup by the class.

It was announced at the graduation exercises that Miss Velma Rowland, Forsyth, and Miss Phoebe Henderson, Columbus, had met the requirements for Theta Chi Omega honor society and had been initiated.

This is the highest scholastic honor that can be bestowed upon a student. Those receiving the bachelor of arts degree are: Virginia Louise Mitchell, Abbeville; Martha Rob Ingram, Sharpsburg; Erlene Ferguson, DeSoto; Junita Paine Clements, Adel; Margaret Ellison, Vienna; Elsie Verna Palmer, Camilla; Mel Gales, Mt. Vernon; Ruth Harrington, Mills; M. L. McElroy, Cochran; Elizabeth Raymond Smith, Washington; Emory Louise Wallace, Rutledge; Ruth Hilda Park, Concord; Bertha Carolyn McFee, Woodstock; Elizabeth Harner, Forsyth.

Vets of Columbus Plan March to Washington

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 31.—(P)—World War veterans of Columbus, and of Phenix City and Girard, Ala., who want congress to authorize full payment of the soldiers' bonus, are planning a march on Washington.

Leaders of the proposed excursion say about 100 veterans of the three cities will make the junket, traveling in automobiles and trucks. They say they expect their ranks to be augmented along the way. People of Columbus, and of the two nearby Alabama cities, were requested to make contributions to help defray the expense of the trip, which is scheduled to start Thursday morning, after a parade here Wednesday afternoon. They hope to reach the national capital Sunday.

"This is not the first time that the veterans already are enamped."

The Enquirer-Sun said John L. Tolbert and Prince D. Greene would be leaders of the march out of Columbus, with John G. Martin, Elven Carter, W. E. Arant, D. D. Jenett and N. S. Newsome as their assistants.

A 15-gun salute was fired by a battery of the 83d field artillery, and Secretary and Mrs. Payne were honored guests tonight at a reception and graduation dance at the commandant's quarters. Tomorrow Secretary Payne will present diplomas to 232 graduates of the infantry school. Among the graduates are two officers of the Chinese army.

GOVERNOR RUSSELL GUEST OF VALDOSTA. VALDOSTA, Ga., May 31.—(P)—Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. Tuesday night was dinner guest of Horace Caldwell, Valdosta alderman. Following the dinner the governor spoke at the American Legion memorial service.

Approximately 50 persons attended the dinner. The governor tomorrow will deliver an address to graduates of the Georgia State Woman's College.

LEGCRAW TO ADDRESS MEETING IN WAYCROSS

Leaders To Discuss Practical Application of "Forward Georgia" Movement.

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 31.—(P)—The practical application of the Forward Georgia movement in every community of the state will be discussed by Roy Legcraw, youthful president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, at a rally of southeast Georgians here Friday.

The conference will be devoted chiefly to a study of livestock development, and the marketing of agricultural products. It is to be held under the auspices of the Waycross Chamber of Commerce, the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, the Waycross Kiwanis Club, and the Forward Georgia committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

In accepting the invitation to speak at the meeting here, Mr. Legcraw said: "The civic and business interests of Waycross and southeastern Georgia can make no mistake in presenting the Forward Georgia program to the citizens of that section. Encouraging each community to put this program into effect so as to bring about better conditions and allowing each community to initiate activities will not only help themselves, but will bring about better conditions and reflect credit to the section as a whole."

He said more than 40 leading communities of the state already have the Forward Georgia program under way. "Forward Georgia" banquets have been held, advocating the use of Georgia products by Georgia people. The establishment of local markets and the back-to-the-farm movement is meeting with success and the approval of the citizens of each community as a whole."

HENRY FORD ON SELF-HELP

My views of how people can best be helped are not new. The present period has only brought them into intensive application. Nearly twenty years ago when we established our minimum wage, which is now six dollars a day, we had the other side of the problem. It was then a problem of sudden prosperity. We tried to teach our employees how to handle their resources to the best advantage and how to evade the parasites which wait on every hand for the workers' wages. There was no criticism of our methods then; in fact, they were commended. They are the same methods now with such improvements as experience has suggested.

I said, in the first of this series, that being out of work. In the last analysis independence means self-dependence. Dependence on some one else for employment in busy times may too easily become dependence on some one else for support in slack times.

If it is right and proper to help people to become wise managers of their own affairs in good times, it cannot be wrong to pursue the same object in dull times. Independence through self-dependence is a method which must commend itself when understood.

Methods of self-help are numerous and great numbers of people have made the stimulating discovery that they need not depend on employers to find work for them—they can find work for themselves. I have more definitely in mind those who have not yet made that discovery, and I should like to express certain convictions I have tested.

The land! That is where our roots are. There is the basis of our physical life. The farther we get away from the land, the greater our insecurity. From the land comes everything that supports life, everything we use for the service of physical life. The land has not collapsed or shrunk in either extent or productivity. It is there waiting to honor all the labor we are willing to invest in it, and able to tide us across any dislocation of economic conditions.

No unemployment insurance can be compared to an alliance between a man and a plot of land. With one foot in industry and another foot in the land, human society is firmly balanced against most economic uncertainties. With a job to supply him with cash, and a plot of land to guarantee him support, the individual is doubly secure. Stocks may fail, but seedtime and harvest do not fail.

I am not speaking of stop-gaps or temporary expedients. Let every man and every family at this season of the year cultivate a plot of land and raise a sufficient supply for themselves or others. Every city and village has vacant space whose use would be permitted. Groups of employed men could rent farms for small sums and operate them on the co-operative plan. Employed men, in groups of ten, twenty or fifty, could rent farms and operate them with several unemployed families. Or, they could engage a farmer with his farm to be their farmer this year, either as employee or on shares. There are farmers who would be glad to give a decent indigent family a corner of a field on which to live and provide against next winter. Industrial concerns everywhere would gladly make it possible for their men, employed and unemployed, to find and work the land. Public-spirited citizens and institutions would most willingly assist in these efforts at self-help.

I do not urge this solely or primarily on the ground of need. It is a definite step to the restoration of normal business activity. Families who adopt self-help have that amount of free money to use in the channels of trade. That in turn means a flow of goods, an increase in employment, a general benefit.

When I suggested this last year and enabled our own people to make the experiment, the critics said that it would mean competition with the farmer. If that were true it would constitute a serious defect in the plan. My interest in the success and prosperity of the farmer is attested by my whole business career.

The farmer is carrying in the form of heavy taxes the burden of families who cannot afford to buy his produce. Enabling them to raise their own food would not be taking a customer away from the farmer, but would be actually lifting a family off the tax-payer's back. It is argued that farm products are so cheap that it is better to buy than grow them. This would be impressive if every one had money to spend. Farm products are cheap because purchasing power is low. And the farmer paying taxes helps to pay the difference. The course I suggest is not competition with the farmer; it deprives him of no customer; it does not affect the big market crops. Gardens never hurt the farmer. Partnerships between groups of city men and individual farmers certainly help the farmer. When a family lifts itself off the welfare lists or increases its free cash by raising its food, it actually helps the farmer as it does every one else, including itself. In fact, it is fundamental that no one is hurt by self-help. In the relief of tax burdens and the revival of industry the farmer would share the benefit.

I do not wish to be too detailed in this suggestion. I know what we shall do in our own part of the country and with our own people. How this method is to be suited to conditions in all parts of the country must be determined. I am urging Branch Managers of the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers everywhere to study this suggestion and find the best method of applying it to their communities.

It is not a question of selling land, or of rents. Those who have the land must offer it to those who will use it. We ourselves shall farm large tracts of land, not for profit, but in experimental search for new market outlets for the farmer. We are saying to our people: "Here is the land. How much can you use?" For several years we have been running large crops of everything from sunflowers to soy beans through our chemical laboratory, in an effort to find an annual market for the farmer's produce—but that is a story I shall have to postpone until Friday. I mention it now to show that even in these larger operations we are not entering into competition with the farmer. Our hope for agriculture is to make it the partner of industry.

Prepared and paid for by the Ford Motor Company as a contribution to public welfare.

BROADER POLICY AIM OF HERRIOT

Probable New Premier of France Rejects Demands of Socialists.

PARIS, May 31.—(AP)—Edouard Herriot, the probable premier-designate of France, declared tonight that the dominant program for him is that which permits "political relaxation and economic understanding abroad."

His pronouncement was made to the executive committee of his radical-socialist (liberal) party in rejecting most of the conditions under which the straight socialists of Leon Blum said they would participate in a Herriot cabinet.

"We criticize nobody," M. Herriot said. "We say the only program which dominates all others at present is that which permits us to establish a balanced budget at home, together with political relaxation and economic understanding abroad."

"In the accomplishment of such a task we are ready to work side by side with the socialists in the government."

Death to Hatred.

The stocky liberal leader previously had pledged himself to chart an unselfish course, unhindered by hate.

France does not wish to base her prosperity on the misery of any other people, he told a gathering of his followers at a luncheon celebrating their recent election victory. He did not specify whether his remarks applied to French relations with Germany.

Socialist participation in a cabinet headed by M. Herriot was considered out of the question after the executive committee of the radical-socialist party rejected a majority of the socialist conditions.

These conditions stipulated organization for peace by agreements among nations embracing reduction of war credits; interdiction of traffic in arms

Floridans Ask Party To Draft Will Rogers

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., May 31.—(AP)—Petitions are being circulated here to draft Will Rogers, actor and humorist, as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. They had obtained about 50 signatures today. Circulators of the petitions said they were serious in their efforts.

The petitions state that "We, the following Florida Crackers, hereby draft you to run for the office of president of the United States of America and demand that our party, the democratic party, place your name before the national convention for nomination."

BIRMINGHAM YOUTHS KILLED IN INDIANA

SEYMOUR, Ind., May 31.—(AP)—G. B. McCormack, 22, and Stanley Smith, 17, both of Birmingham, were killed and three companions from the same city were injured when their automobile was struck by a bus near here last night.

The party was returning from the 500-mile speedway race at Indianapolis.

and nationalization of arms manufacture; a balanced budget without cutting social service funds; state control of banks; nationalization of railroads; a national monopoly of insurance; a 40-hour week, and general amnesty for political prisoners.

Opposes Demands.

M. Herriot carried the radical-socialist meeting with him, declaring although politely against the bulk of the socialist demands.

Those relating to the traffic in arms and the 40-hour week could only be accomplished by international agreement; he said nationalization of the railroads and establishment of a national insurance monopoly would require 2,000,000,000 francs (currently about $250,000,000) and 11,000,000,000 francs (about $440,000,000), respectively, at a time when the treasury was exhausted, he added.

The committee's decision will be submitted to the socialists, but the consensus in the lobby of parliament was that they would find it insufficient.

LONG BACK HOME TO RUN LOUISIANA IN BUDGET CRISIS

BATON ROUGE, La., May 31.—(AP)—Making a jump from the legislative frying pan to the fire, Huey P. Long has temporarily abandoned the revenue-raising wrangle of the United States senate to help push through a budget-balancing program at home.

Treading familiar ground, the Louisiana senator and former governor, familiarly known as "The Kingfish," today swooped down on the state legislature, took charge of Governor O. K. Allen's tax bills and in one morning pushed them all through to committee approval.

The bills, proposing additional taxation on tobacco, insurance, electric power and soft drinks, were introduced in the house last night, shaped to raise $4,000,000 in new revenues. Appearing personally before the ways and means committee this morning, Senator Long alternately used persuasive and condemnatory oratory to secure unanimously favorable reports on all the measures except the tobacco tax. One representative voted "no" on this proposal.

NOCTURNAL PROWLERS GATHER VARIED BOOTY

Loot ranging from an auto trailer to a dozen fat hens was taken by a dozen burglars Tuesday morning, according to police reports.

The automobile trailer was stolen from J. E. Potter, 2906 Capitol avenue, as the vehicle stood in front of his home, and the poultry was stolen from the premises of W. P. Bailey, 528 Highland avenue, N. E.

Cigarettes were stolen from a drug store operated by A. W. Leake, 1180 Gordon street, after the burglars smashed a window to gain entrance, and a pay station telephone was rifled of its cash contents in a Standard Oil filling station at Piedmont avenue and Cain street.

STRUCK DOWN BY AUTO, ATLANTAN NEAR DEATH

Jack Smith, 27, of 790 Ponce de Leon avenue, a real estate salesman, was in Grady hospital critically injured Tuesday night and James Head, negro driver of an auto which struck Smith as he stepped into Piedmont avenue, was held without bond pending the outcome of the victim's condition.

According to witnesses, Smith had started across Piedmont avenue in the 500 block and apparently stumbled. Head's passing car hurled him some distance and he was taken to Grady hospital for treatment. Doctors said a possible skull fracture and internal injuries might prove fatal.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

There can be no doubt that President Hoover expresses the sentiment of the entire country in urging congress to finish its work, thus relieving the nation of the distressing uncertainty caused by political squabbling, which is dragging the nation nearer to an abyssal crisis.

Congress has literally talked the business of the country to the verge of desperation and republicans and democrats alike are responsible for the vast loss attributable to delay.

The president is to be commended for at last having the courage to present the situation face to face with congress. If he had done this when the ways and means committee reported its non-partisan tax measure, he situation would have cleared long before this.

But it is "better late than never!" The necessity for firm and constructive leadership by the president is emphasized by the Kansas City Star in expressing the belief that "vigorous appeals from the White house for drastic economies, for the manufacturers' sales tax, for a balanced budget, would carry immense weight, for congress would know these appeals had the nation behind them." The editorial is reproduced in another column of this page.

The president has dodged, twisted and evaded until now the people, in the midst of peace, are to be burdened with the war nuisance taxes.

Postage is to go up; most of the articles which tend to human comfort will be made more costly because of increased taxation upon them, amusements are to be taxed to help pay for our years of governmental waste and extravagance, and the backs of the taxpayers are to be lashed generally as never before.

The burden will be heavier now because when the war-time taxes were in force the country was better able to pay than it is in this day of reduced incomes.

All too apparent now is the fatal mistake made when, under the leadership of Insurgent Republican LaGuardia, the house rode roughshod over the non-partisan tax bill which acting Chairman Crisp, of the ways and means committee, so brilliantly and fearlessly championed.

Since that time the mob spirit has been in control of congress. Not only has it resulted in putting on the people the onus of war-time nuisance taxes not contemplated and not necessary under the ways and means committee bill, but the ensuing uncertainty and delay has affected every line of business and cost the country millions of dollars a day.

In the light of the present situation and what seems to be ahead, the warning of acting Chairman Crisp, who gallantly led the fight for the adoption of the non-partisan ways and means committee measure, reads today like a prophecy.

A UNIQUE MEMORIAL.
The dedication by New Jersey of a beautiful arboretum at Washington, D.C., on the Delaware, as its contribution to the nationwide celebration of the Washington bicentennial is a new type of memorial combining in a unique degree both sentiment and beauty.

Located at the spot where Washington made his famous crossing of the Delaware, it will become more beautiful as the years go by. Its eight acres are beautifully landscaped and contain more than a thousand trees and some 1,500 shrubs, there being between 50 and 60 different varieties of the shade trees and flowering shrubs typical of the New Jersey woodlands.

Few states offer better opportunity for such a memorial than does Georgia. Here are to be found not only the beautiful wild flowers and shrubs of the south, but as well practically every type of flora to be found in the colder states. Every tree that grows in America prospers in the soil and climate of the state.

An arboretum in Georgia would be filled with blooms practically the year around and the breezes would waft from its blossoms the exquisite scent of the jasmine, the magnolia and the honeysuckle.

The example of New Jersey in departing from the stereotyped, monumental form of memorial should be followed here, not only in the honoring of the outstanding sons of the state but in marking historic spots and in the development of public parks.

The early bird gets the worm and then the tax collector comes along and takes half of it.

SOUND AND CERTAIN RELIEF.

Of all the measures, either already in operation or now before congress, none have a more general scope of aid than the home loan banks bill, which will soon come up for consideration.

Under the bill, existing local home loan and other organizations financing institutions, building and financing home construction will become members of a federal system of home loan banks, which would release funds to them on the same general basis as the federal reserve bank system furnishes supplements to the working cash of the commercial banks of the country.

Home construction throughout the country has practically ceased because of the depleted liquid assets of the building associations. Not only are these associations being forced to carry many of their clients who, on account of reduced family revenues, are unable to keep up with their payments, but their cash is being further reduced by withdrawals by investors who need their money in their own business interests.

If these institutions could turn to federal loan banks to refinance their loans the fear of foreclosure would be lifted from thousands of American home owners, others could refinance their loans on easier annual payments and there would be an immediate revival of activity in the building trades.

The record of stability of the home building and loan associations during the past two years testifies to the safety of such a relief program by the government. While thousands of banks and commercial houses throughout the country have been closing their doors, only about 1 per cent of the approximately 8,000 home loan concerns have failed. No class of financial institutions are more rigidly regulated by law.

The bill would give relief that would be fundamental in its general effect. The revival of the building trades would put many thousands of men back to work, while business and industry generally would be aided through the ability of home owners, now strained to the limit of their resources to meet annual payments undertaken during boom times, to reduce these payments and thus have more money to spend for merchandise.

Having already, through the finance reconstruction and other measures, come to the aid of the banks, railroads and other major financial and industrial activities, the government could well turn its attention to relief for the home owner and the workers.

No suggested plan would as generally affect the public as the proposed home loan bank in the relieving influence on the building trades and the increased buying power it would create.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

American Tourists Wanted.

They seem to have come to the conclusion in Europe that America harbors some other kind of inhabitants but multi-millionaires. At least judging by the reductions in ocean fares and travel on the continent, Europe hopes to attract the mass of the countrymen and country women rather than the single rich man. European newspapers are full of the plans that exist to entice strangers and entertain them cheaply. Only $87 now separates the American from the European shore. In four days time he can travel in Europe and take the plunge into the sea, by traveling at nights of course.

The hope is that many thousands of Americans will heed the call of cheap travel in Europe and take the plunge this summer. Steamship companies in fact predict, and they have some figures to back up their predictions, that there will be a rush for the old continent this summer. Some boats are booked months in advance, it is said. These are one-class boats run from New York to an English port.

Hotel keepers, agencies, banks, guides, auto enterprises and restaurants are warned to treat the incoming host with kindness and consideration. Even if they stay only a few days, be polite to them, says a French bulletin that circulates among the hotelmen. It may sound kind, strange, that Frenchmen have to be urged to be polite. But then French politeness is not really a thing of the past. If you have money and hand it out right and left without discrimination, you are a lovely fellow. But once you dare to question anyone who is trying to overcharge you or cheat you, they become extremely disagreeable in France, and especially in Paris.

From now on, however, they are going to mend their ways. The spirit of tourism has its way. Tourists are wanted.

"Love-One-Another" Party.
Tens of thousands of posters decorated, or if you will, defaced the streets of Paris during the revolution campaign. There were some gruesome pictures among them. One which struck me particularly depicted a bunch of savages, some of them with spears, slaughtering women and children, came bearing down on Paris, which was shown in the distance. The poster meant to convey the spirit of Hitlerism and invited the electors to vote for candidates of the right, that is to say nationalists, who would see to it that France's future was not tip-top shape to forestall any such eventualities as depicted on the bloody poster.

One candidate announced that he had formed a party of his own, known as the "love one another party." He thought the world's ills could be remedied by arranging for huge banquets, meetings and gathering between Frenchmen and Germans, somewhere on the banks of the Rhine. Immense pictures he advocated, where all the old ravages would be forgotten and tens of thousands would spend themselves dancing, eating and making love.

The End Is Nigh.

Wars, rumors of wars, earthquakes, pestilences, commotions and revolutions are taken as indications that the world is nearing its end, according to several evangelical bodies, who have combined in a big campaign throughout Europe to warn the peoples that prophecy has foreseen these stirring days we live in as warnings of the imminent dissolution of the world.

It is not the first time that men thought we were approaching some final cataclysm. In the year 1000 the church believed that the end of the world was at hand. In the year 1800 the church believed that the end of the world was at hand. In the year 1900 the church believed that the end of the world was at hand. In the year 1932 the church believed that the end of the world was at hand.

ROBERT E. THOMPSON, second lieutenant, Aero Squadron, air service, American Expeditionary Force, awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action with the enemy near Chamblay, France, September 13, 1918.

While acting as observer for a flight of three airplanes, they were attacked by a flight of German fighters. Despite the fact that his formation was surrounded by an overwhelming force of the enemy, he continued his mission and bombed the objective. In the combat which followed Lieutenant Thompson and his pilot fought valiantly, thus enabling another plane to return with valuable information of the enemy.

In this conflict both Lieutenant Thompson and his pilot were killed when their plane was shot down in flames and crashed. The gallant and sacrificial conduct of this officer won the admiration of all the members of his squadron.

Residence at appointment, Atlanta, Ga. Posthumously awarded Medal presented to father, Charles E. Thompson.

The Last Mile Brings You to the Goal, But the First One Carries You Just as Far

By Robert Quillen

If you should come upon the builder of a house as he drove the last nail in place, you would not say: "The man is building a house." Seeing the work so near completion you would think of it as something already done.

Yet when a man is drawing near the end of his days, you say of him: "He is dying!" And the mingled awe and desperation revealed by your tone of voice indicate that he is beginning a new and dreadful adventure. As a matter of fact, he is merely finishing the business of dying. He has been dying since he reached maturity—dying, in truth, since the day he was born.

You came into the world without other capital than life itself. You were given so many days and hours to live. Time became your stock in trade—your store of treasure to be expended as you might choose—the measure of life and the stuff of life.

"Time is money," you are told. But time is something much more valuable than money. Time is life. And each hour that passes by reduces your little store of life and leaves you forever poorer.

You must spend your life, you would think him the worst of criminals. Yet the man who asks for 60 minutes of time is demanding a portion of your life and you regard him as nothing worse than a nuisance. What has he to offer in trade that is worth a fraction of life?

Perhaps you resent his brazen theft of your treasure. And perhaps you resent the hard circumstance that requires you to give other hours to people who have claims upon you. Why, then, if you know the value of hours, do you lose so many by reason of your own careless indifference?

You would spend your hours like a miser, demanding the utmost value of each second, if you had but a few remaining. Why, then, do you spend yours so carelessly? Is one dollar worth more than another? When you "kill time," it is yourself you are killing; for time is your life, and death closes your account when you have spent the last of it.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 31.—Moanings and groanings about the studios at the close of the first summer holiday. Back from the beaches and mountains trooped fair and lovely ladies and the male examples of serenity and sartorial elegance in various hues and stages of sunburn, blister and disfigurement.

The ensuing readjustment of makeup, lighting, change in scenery, and the incident of a lost key, the movie-makers a few pennies as is usual after a big week-end in our California sun.

Over half a million people swarmed along the ocean front and, with the exception of some seven or eight companies at work on retakes, the entire personnel of the studios lay out in the sun for 48 hours.

BONERS

HERE IS BAD NEWS FOR THE BUTCHER.

In barefoot days we developed a furtive air from trying to get by a butcher shop to purchase our own pump without being halted with a "Hi, bubby, take this along home to your mother. It's the way of disposing of a surplus of liver."

How the times have changed! For at least 10 years before Murphy's Minute liver enjoyed a considerable vogue in this column, as a nutritious, wholesome, economical meat. The price of the commodity began to rise from practically nothing to a questionable figure. We regretted the trend and lay off liver. But it was too late. Along came the Boston march men and their discovery of the specific value of liver in the treatment of pernicious anemia. We concluded to wash our hands of the matter and eaters and benders.

Bananas went very well for a while. We had a kind of sole proprietorship of the bananas-for-banana movement. At one stage a fruit company actually sent along a handsome illustrated booklet telling us what we had been eating for several years. But no bananas. No, no, positively no bananas. Oh, yes, some big hearted importer once sent us a whole bunch of bananas. He called it "the honor slaying" of a four star general in a barrel, we understand. The boys in the proform forgot to mention it until months afterward, but then they assured me the bananas were the best they ever ate.

It would be unfair not to mention the iodized salt man, the chippy man and the goat dairy man's offering met the same fate as did the bananas. And especially the molasses man. There's a man who knows no how to turn out licking good molasses but how to keep a kind of molasses sweetened up.

Since we have been buying the liver or market the butcher has assumed almost an insolent bearing. His car always at our door as if he were a servant. If we encounter him about the shop he generally passes the time, giving us some information about iodine diet and never so demands himself as to ask our opinion or to defer to us in any way. Give us a sample of choice liver? Don't be silly. However, it is in vindictive mood but purely for the sake of more health to more people that I note here the very latest advice from Boston march men.

None other than Dr. William P. Murphy himself reports that a new extract of liver containing iodine or no protein proved more effective in the treatment of pernicious anemia than liver in any form by mouth. The new extract is injected intramuscularly, intravenously and in very grave cases the benefit is so striking and so immediate that Dr. Murphy suggests it may replace the stomach tube in the treatment of the critically ill patient. He further recommends the injection method as safe as it is effective, rapid in effect, as a valuable substitute for the administration of liver by mouth in cases where the patient finds it hard to take sufficient liver. It does not require hospitalization, and it is rather less expensive than any form of liver or liver extract taken by mouth. Injections are given at intervals of one to three weeks.

Incidentally, liver or liver extract is of little value in the treatment of ordinary secondary anemia.

U.S. PARTICIPATE AT TRADE PARLEY

Great Britain To Sponsor International Economic Conference.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—The United States has consented to attend an international economic conference in London, sponsored by Great Britain, for the purpose of considering methods of stabilizing world commodity prices.

The date of the conference and its program have not been announced, but the state department made it clear today that the American acceptance of the invitation was with the understanding that only economic questions should be considered and political questions such as war debts and reparations barred.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador in Washington, asked Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. a fortnight ago to give consideration to such a conference. Meanwhile, Ambassador Mellon discussed the subject with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, in London.

Other Powers Invited.
Today the United States has consented to attend an international economic conference in London, sponsored by Great Britain, for the purpose of considering methods of stabilizing world commodity prices.

The date of the conference and its program have not been announced, but the state department made it clear today that the American acceptance of the invitation was with the understanding that only economic questions should be considered and political questions such as war debts and reparations barred.

As there has been no discussion of the details of the program as yet, it is not known whether the conference will consider plans for improving the price of silver.

The meeting will in no way be connected with the Lausanne conference which is to be held June 16, primarily for the consideration of reparations and intergovernmental debts, but the latter also will discuss plans for the betterment of world economic conditions and may develop plans which later will be considered by the London conference.

The British empire conference is to be held in Ottawa in July. The state department is of the opinion it will not be possible to hold the London conference until the Ottawa meeting is finished.

British Suggestion First.
The state department statement concerning the London conference follows:

"The suggestion that an international conference should be called for the purpose of considering methods to stabilize world commodity prices first came to the attention of this government through an inquiry of the British ambassador in Washington as to whether we would be interested and would participate in such a conference."

"The suggestion was that the conference should be called by the British government in London. After due consideration this government replied through Ambassador Mellon that the early convocation of such a conference would be of real value in the present depression. As was stated in press messages from London, the proper and the right thing to do was to do with war debts, reparations, disarmament, or anything but economic matters. It is our understanding that the British government is also approaching France, Italy and other powers on the subject."

Companies functioning in New York reported reorganization plans adopted for the $1,000,000 Home Mortgage Company, Durham, N. C.

Capt. von Papen Under Indictment In U. S. for Wartime Activities

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—The New York Times says Captain Franz von Papen, chancellor-designate of Germany, could not visit the United States without facing arrest and trial because of a World War indictment still standing against him.

After his departure from New York with Captain Karl Boy-Ed, the paper reveals he was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to organize a military expedition against a friendly country in a plot to blow up the Welland canal in Canada.

The grand jury was quoted by the paper as having said: "down at the time—April 1, 1918—three reasons for the indictment:

1. That the department of justice, in its opinion, believed there should be attached to his name whatever of stigma the indictment carries.

2. That the indictment carries with it an amount of punishment that, since it cannot be outlawed by treaty, it is considered a just return to the United States without running the risk of arrest and trial.

3. For its general effect and as a possible warning against the abuse of diplomatic privilege by representatives of foreign governments.

filiated with the extreme right wing of the centrist party.

The nationalist party of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, second to Hitler in the right wing, had condemned von Papen today when the Deutsche Zeitung criticized his conciliatory attitude toward France.

The cabinet which von Papen said he believed would be announced tomorrow also will be unusual, although in the present crisis a dictatorial cabinet would not be unexpected. The men asked to participate include:

Possible Makeup.
Interior—Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, a powerful nationalist, who had been mentioned as a possible chancellor.

Foreign Affairs—Baron Constantine von Neurath, the present ambassador in London.

Defense—General Curt von Schleicher, chief of staff, and leader of the military faction that aided in forcing the ending regime.

Economics—Hermann Warmbold, independent member of the Brüning cabinet.

Labour—Karl Goergeler, mayor of Leipzig and the governmental price "dictator."

Agriculture—Baron von Luenick, a powerful nationalist, who had been mentioned as a possible chancellor.

Von Papen said not all of the proposed cabinet had replied to his invitations. "None of them are members of the reichstag."

If the new cabinet is formed merely to carry out a government until elections can be held, the right wing is expected to tolerate it and it probably will draw sufficient support to continue in power until after a new reichstag is selected.

Many Shots Fired.
The temper of the fascists was strikingly demonstrated during the political negotiations when a score of shots were fired as police clashed with fascists on the Unter Den Linden, near the American embassy.

A large fascist demonstration started when Joseph Goebbels, a Hitler lieutenant, appeared before the Prussian ministry of interior and began haranguing a crowd from his automobile. At the same time the national guard parading to the presidential palace attracted a thousand curious spectators.

Police intervened to disperse the gatherings after many minor clashes. The crowd shouted "Hitler! Hitler! Germany awake!" Several were arrested. Sixteen others were arrested in clashes with police in which three officers were wounded. Four demonstrators were injured.

At Burscheid Reheimsland, a policeman was killed in the course of a clash between the police and communists. Three rioters were seriously injured.

VON PAPEN AND BOY-ED REMOVED BY U. S. IN 1915
WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Captain Franz von Papen, named to form the new German cabinet, shared display headlines in American papers with Captain Karl Boy-Ed in December, 1915, when these two attaches of the German embassy here were handed their passports and sent back to Germany.

Count Bernstorff, then German ambassador, battled to keep the two officers in this country, but without success. Even the Kaiser made a protest on their behalf, but Secretary Lansing would not budge.

He based his stand upon testimony given in the trial of Hamburg American line officials, who had been indicted for the sinking of the Lusitania, a German warship indicating von Papen and Boy-Ed also had a hand in inspiring the chartering of ships under falsified papers to supply coal to German warships in South American waters.

Von Papen was military attaché and Boy-Ed was naval attaché. They

Holder, too, addressed his statement to "the people of Georgia," and said:

"When it became known there would be an open field for the governorship this year, it was suggested to me by some partial friends that I become a candidate. In the last three weeks, however, I have received letters, telegrams, telephone calls and personal solicitations from every section of Georgia, urging me to submit my candidacy to the people for the governorship. These requests come not only from those who have, in the past, been my faithful adherents and loyal friends, but from hundreds who have never given me their support. They insist that my long experience in public life and my familiarity and knowledge of the affairs of the state, and its different departments, would enable me to render efficient aid in the solution of Georgia's difficult problems, such as helping depressed and unprofitable agriculture; promoting employment for thousands who are anxious to work for their needy families; reduce taxes of all kinds, by cutting down expenses of all departments of state to the minimum; to pay the outstanding obligations of the state; continue unimpaired the great rebuilding program; encourage, aid and properly support our common schools and high schools so that Georgia

What Are You Doing About It?

Are you trusting to the teachers and the school nurse to cure him? Or are you seeing to it yourself that he gets the proper medication?

Are you taking measures to safeguard the rest of the family—including yourself—from infection? Athlete's Foot, remember, is very catching.

See that your child washes his feet thoroughly with Emerald Oil BEFORE and AFTER his bath, and that he treats his feet with it regularly every night and morning.

Don't let him run around barefoot, especially in the bathroom. Sterilize the tub after him, and the bathroom floor. Don't let him put on any one else's shoes or stockings. Boil the sheets from his bed.

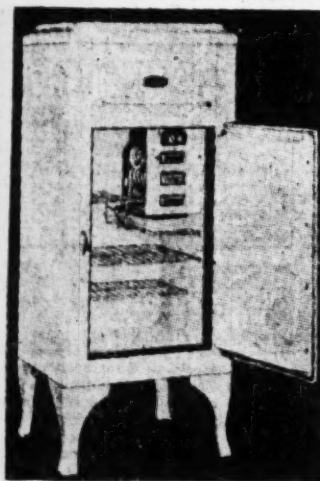

Have the rest of the family use plenty of Emerald Oil on their feet as a precautionary measure. Use it yourself.

One bottle of Emerald Oil is guaranteed to end every symptom of Athlete's Foot or money back. Jacobs Pharmacy Co. and all other first-class druggists sell it with that guarantee.

In the fifth (Atlanta) district, the matter of nominating a candidate was left in the hands of a subcommittee of three which will report to another meeting of the district committee.

The executive committee meeting here was presided over by W. R. Tucker, of Dawsonville, vice chairman. Chairman Joseph T. Rose was in Washington on business of the committee and he conferred by telephone with the members while they were in session.

Following the meeting Arnold stated that he would make a statement regarding his platform on his return from the national committee, of which he is a member, in Chicago. He will leave to attend the meeting the latter part of this week.

"MYSTERY PERSON" IN CENTER OF QUIZ

accountant disappeared last summer. In a continued attempt to link the pair beyond question, the committee counsel called one of his own accountants, who told him making an analysis of Sherwood's accounts.

He said the following money was drawn from them for the benefit of the mysterious unnamed friend of Walker:

For stocks, $41,668.93.
Letter of credit, $10,000, later increased to $16,500.
For 300 shares of B. M. T. (subway) stock, $17,152.50.

The subway stock, he said, later was returned to the Sherwood account. The same witness fixed the total of Sherwood's deposits in the various accounts at $961,225 between 1926 and 1931.

He also disclosed that on the dates when Sherwood drew on one of his bank accounts checks for the mayor's sister and for the upkeep of the mayor's yacht, Walker had ample funds to pay the bills in his own account.

When Seabury swung his fire back to the Equitable Coach Company and its successful attempt to obtain a city-wide franchise, possible was signed by Walker, he called J. Allan Smith, a representative of the company.

It was Smith who purchased a $10,000 letter of credit the mayor used on one of his European trips and later made good a $3,000 overdraft the mayor incurred.

After the witness had told of the employment of Hastings at the salary which he termed "a very low figure," Seabury asked:

"Wasn't it his (Hastings) duty to solicit for the favor of the franchise at city hall as your employer?"

"He wasn't earning his money if he didn't do that," Smith replied. In addition, the witness said, Hastings also was to "help put our story before the public through the newspapers."

There was an agreement, he explained, whereby Hastings, in addition to his salary, was to receive some stock if the franchise went through.

inserted the cutting knife, it voted to keep the asphalt plant closed; failed to follow Chambers' recommendation that the city buy crushed stone on the open market rather than operate the city quarry, reinstated Mrs. Neil Printup and kept Miss Frankie Hicks cutting both salaries to a net of $100 a month; voted to cut salaries of 53 truck drivers from $4.05 a day to a maximum of $3.50 a day, and while labor from $3.60 a day to $3, and voted to ask for bids on laying of all lateral sewers in the future, a plan which Chambers estimated would save about $50,000 a year.

The committee this afternoon will continue a study of the construction department, also taking up Chambers' recommendations regarding economies in the office of the city marshal. It is estimated that about $10,000 can be saved for the remainder of the year in the latter department.

With the $125,000 estimated saving effected in the recommendations which the committee approved Tuesday and the $27,913 which was voted Monday night, the municipality is about $150,000 nearer balancing the June finance sheet. The committee must still call about $100,000 more from various divisions in order to bring it within the $248,000 which it now carries and in which there is no reasonable anticipation of receipts to make good.

The committee also ordered the legal department to take over collection of $2,600 which Chambers claims the Georgia Power Company owes the city for paving street car track areas.

The committee deferred action on a proposed five-day-a-week plan for operation of the department, which Chambers estimates would save several thousands of dollars a year, and did not touch skilled labor in the entire department. There were intimations that unless the sheet can be balanced without cutting them, skilled labor also will get a slash.

Alderman Alvin L. Richards, vice chairman of the committee, presided at Tuesday's session in the absence from the city of Councilman James L. Wells, chairman.

1 Killed, 10 Injured In Spanish Rioting

MADRID, May 31.—(AP)—One man was killed and at least 20 more or less seriously injured during 24 hours of syndicalist riots in Spain up to early this morning.

At Cadix the strikers ransacked food stores. Civil guards fired into the air and dispersed the strikers, arresting the leaders. Authorities closed three syndicalist headquarters and cordoned off police were placed about all public buildings and churches.

A powerful bomb exploded early this morning near the city hall at Cadix, damaging some of the municipal offices and nearby buildings. One man was wounded and six arrested during two gun battles with police during the night.

"Cocktail Murder Mystery" Stirs Fashionable London

LONDON, May 31.—(AP)—The haunts of Mayfair society were stirred today by the fatal shooting of Michael Scott Stephens, son of a London banker, after a cocktail party.

The tragedy occurred in the apartment of Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, beautiful golden-haired divorcee and daughter of a knight, whose former husband is John Sterling Barney, an American singer.

No charges had been filed tonight against Mrs. Barney, in whose flat in Williams Mews the young man was shot and killed at about 4 a. m.

The story which it was understood Scotland Yard investigators would tell at an inquest next Friday is that during discussions in the long hours after a gay cocktail party Stephen brandished a revolver which was accidentally discharged, killing him.

Meanwhile, astonishing stories were heard of parties which were held in the gaily-decorated back-alley flat in Williams Mews, the London counterpart of Greenwich Village's MacDougal alley in New York. One room, done in black and white, was especially popular with the guests, who called it "the maple room."

The attention of neighbors was first drawn to the apartment in the early hours of this morning by noises usually associated with a cocktail party. Then came sounds of a commotion and unusually loud cries. These were followed by several shots and silence in the fashionable Knight's Bridge section, in which the apartment is situated.

In a few moments there came a woman's cry. The neighbors heard her scream, "Come quickly."

Police found the body of the 35-year-old society man on a sofa. Physicians said his death was due to gunshot wounds.

Scotland Yard decided the case was of first importance. It called in Sir Bernard Spillbury, eminent pathologist, for consultation.

The young man's mother and father were called to the morgue and identified the body of the handsome blond victim, who was a native of Scotland. The mother was distraught. The father was calm, meticulously attired in a silk hat and morning clothes.

A groom who lived near Mrs. Barney's apartment said that one night about two weeks ago he saw Stephen leave the apartment, calmly step inside an empty grocer's truck nearby and make himself comfortable on the floor to go to sleep.

"He slept soundly for many hours and in the morning awoke and went to breakfast," the groom said. There was no information after the shooting as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Barney, whose husband is understood to be in the United States.

Mrs. Barney is a daughter of Sir John Mullen.

Barney came to London from New York in 1928 and soon met and married the beautiful Elvira Dolores Mullins, who had appeared on the stage as Dolores Ashley. Her younger sister, Avril, is the wife of Prince George Meritsky.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am married to a man that is good enough when he is sober, pays the bills without protest, makes ample provision for me and the children, but the drinking habit is fastening itself upon him rapidly. He is a traveling man and when he comes in from a long trip his first thought is for a drink. He expects me to meet him at the door with open arms, to understand his craving for the stimulation of a drink, and after he has taken it, or rather taken two or three, he expects me to continue to show him consideration and affection. I simply cannot do it. I think the example to the children is bad. One night recently he came in pretty far gone and asked me to put him to bed and nurse him as tenderly as if he were a sick child. I refused. He said, "I thought I had a wife who cared for me no matter what I did. He then threatened me and told me if I didn't look out, I wouldn't have a roof over my head. I suppose he meant he would put me and the children out of the house. He is getting to be querulous, expects perfection in the home and when I complain that I have more than I can do he says, "Why not make the children help." I have little enough pleasure as it is. I go occasionally to a movie but most of my leisure time is spent in gardening, tending to the chickens, and doing chores around the place.

I have a college education and ought to be able to think this problem through, but I am completely at a loss to know what I ought to do. I love him and want to live with him but he is making it hard for me to do my duty toward him. Not being a business woman, I look with dread on the possibility of having to support myself and the children. Please tell me if you can suggest how a man deliberately sets about to do the one thing that makes his wife unhappy and when he is doing it demands that she shall show him the love and respect which his conduct prevents her feeling. The drunker he is, the more attention he wants, and the more unlovely he is, the more he wants to be petted and made over.

TROUBLED.

ANSWER:

You have made one false assumption; namely, that your husband deliberately drinks, and if you can correct that assumption and get hold of the truth it will probably enable you to think your problem through to a

Culbertson
on Contract
A Deschappelles Coup

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Occasionally a player of a game so stamps his individuality upon it that admirers, wishing to immortalize his accomplishments, give to one of his brilliant inventions his name. In the early days of Whist, there lived a Frenchman who was known to lovers of Whist as one of the most brilliant and audacious players of all times. Among the plays for which he was noted was the sacrifice of a winning card to prevent a player, having a long established or established suit and with but one entry, from bringing in the long card. This play is a particularly brilliant one, and the bidding of Contract, with its more precise information, presents an opportunity for its execution than did the game of Whist, which was one purely of tactics.

Recently, in a rubber game at the Deschappelles Club in New York, the holder of the East hand had an opportunity for this unusual play on the following hand:

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
5NT	Pass	6♠	Pass
6NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is, of course, overoptimistic. South, unquestionably, should permit the contract to be played in spades, and even six spades can be made against any opening except a low heart, and even then, if the Dealer makes the proper guess, East's Double of the six notrump contract is not particularly sound, but East explained it afterwards on the ground that he was annoyed by the seemingly unscientific bidding of his opponents and he felt that this bidding should in some manner be penalized. If West had chosen to open a club, instead of his fourth best heart, this story would not have been written, as the contract must be inevitably defeated. But West, after East's Double, decided that the four-card major suit was probably the best opening.

East won with the Ace, and studied the Dummy carefully. On the bidding, he reasoned that South could not hold more than one spade. Seven were in sight in the Dummy, and South had refused to permit North to play the hand at spades. South's singleton quite probably was the Ace, and as otherwise South would not have bid six notrump, if South held the Ace singleton, then the spade suit could not be run, if Dummy's entry were removed.

Reasoning thus, East immediately returned the King of clubs, and South was helpless. He won the trick with the Ace, but the Dummy thereafter was valueless. East and West thus won two hearts and two clubs, defeating the Slam contract 3 tricks doubled, for a penalty of 1,000. Due to a combination of bad bidding by South and brilliant defensive tactics by East, the legacy of the great Frenchman to all players of the games of the Whist family had been effectively realized.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Accurate defense implies something more than wooden following of the rules. The great player instinctively recognizes the situations which require unusual treatment.

—JUST KEEP ON BOSSING HIM—HE'LL GET USED TO IT—

Sudden Love
By ELIZABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS:
Ramee Sully spends her lonely young life between the office, where she is a test-tube child, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but Ramee knows how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Ramee, is a misfit in his family. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband, Jimmy Considine, a crook lawyer, forced to leave his wife and child. Ramee, the only one left, is a misfit in her family. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a misfit in his family. Ramee, the only one left, is a misfit in her family. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a misfit in his family. Ramee, the only one left, is a misfit in her family. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a misfit in his family.

INSTALLMENT XV.
"I mean, Considine got me out of this jam, but now he thinks he owns me. And he's got a lot of influence. Esme, don't know what that fellow is?"

"He's a lawyer, Lew," she said dubiously.

"And how? He's a crook lawyer. He's—don't you see? That fellow was it! It makes me sick to think of you; you don't know. He's—Es—"

She was silent, looking at him, strangely and dreadfully impressed by that expression. She did not doubt the truth of it. Hadn't she known in her heart from the very beginning, that Jimmy was like that? Because he was handsome, because he had spoken of love to her when she was so lonely, so lost, she had thought she loved him. She had wanted security and reassurance. She had tried not to admit her own doubts and suspicions.

"Now he thinks he owns me," Lew went on. "I don't want to worry you, Es, but if I tried to cut loose from the crowd now he'd stop me, all right. Some of his friends would take me for a nice little ride."

"Lew," she said in a whisper, "O, what can we do?"

"I'm going to clear out," he said. "I'm going to Canada tonight. You see, Considine told me he didn't trust me. He said I was the kind to make trouble. He wants to get me in so deep that I can't squeal. Well, I don't want to squeal. I just want to get out. And make a fresh start."

"Not much! He doesn't take any of the risks. He's got plenty of saps to do his dirty work. But you know how his crowd sort-of edges into the lives of other people. I mean you read about the underworld and all that, and it's just a bunch of crooks. But it isn't, a police protection. No one can touch him. He's respectable. Anybody who thinks he is. He plays safe. He's damned smart. Es, he wants you and he thinks he can get you. He's got me fixed. I've got to blow. I've got to get out, and get out quick. I'd take you with me only I think you're safer where you are. And when I'm gone you've got to drop him. You'll have trouble with him but he won't hurt you."

"I've got to go now, Es—Es, dear, good-bye."

She still held his hand tight.

"You'll tell me where to write, Lew?"

"You bet! And you'll drop Considine—quick! Never mind what he says. He won't hurt you. Swear you'll drop him?"

"I was going to say, anyhow, O, Lew, how did you come to this? How did we come down so far?"

His head was averted, his glance fixed on the ground. She looked and looked at the fine clear, young profile of his thin face.

"You haven't come down," he said. "I've been thinking about what that fellow said last night. He was drunk, but what he said was true, that you're—lovely and good."

"Lew!" she cried, unbearably touched.

"I got sort of infatuated with that girl," he said. "That's finished now. I'm going to start over again. Start straight. His young voice broke. "You'll see, Es. One of the days you'll see."

"I see now, Lew, darling! You just made one mistake. But, Lew! Lew, think all the time how I'm loving you and having faith in you, darling. Lew, and how I'll miss you."

"Well," he said, "keep an eye on mother. She—I guess she's tried. Only she doesn't understand anything. So long, Es."

She saw that he could not endure to say any more. She stood by the cigar stand, watching him as he walked away toward the door.

A man standing near the revolving doors came up to him, touched him on the shoulder, said something to him. Lew turned, and she had a glimpse of his face. She never forgot that look.

Lew wasn't going to get away to Canada that night. He hadn't finished paying up for his "one mistake." He went off, without another glance at her, with the weary, overworked young fellow who had accented him. How had they come to this? How had they come down so far, she and Lew?

They were defenseless, both of them. They had no friends—no place in the world.

"I was a fool about Michael," she thought, going home on the subway. "I was a damned fool. How could there be anything in that? Even if he loved me it couldn't be anything. Why didn't I see that before? I'd better stop loving him, quick. I couldn't do him anything but harm."

There was a look on her face that had never worn before—a somber, bitter resolution.

"I belong with my people," she thought. "I wouldn't just desert them, even for Michael. And he can't get mixed up with us. I wouldn't let him even if he cared; I don't suppose he cares much. Like Jimmy, perhaps, I suppose I'm pretty. Men like that way. Well, all right! I don't like them; I'm not going any farther down her line of reasoning. I'm going to be like Miss Bartram. I'm not going to care if I have a good time. I'm going to work and get ahead. I'll make money so that we can live in a nice, clean little place. I'll fool Jimmy. I'll tell him lies so that I can get Lew away from him."

She tried to picture herself like Miss Bartram—going home to a little house in the suburbs. Lew with a good job, her mother in a nice black dress.

"And an Irish terrier," she thought. But she wanted Michael, longed for him, and she couldn't have him. "Well, you can't have that," she said to herself. "If he ever wants to see you again, all right, you can see him. But you've got to realize it can't ever be anything. . . . and probably he won't want to see you. He could have telephoned if he'd wanted to. Only he probably thinks I am horrible. I've got to go to that hotel with him."

Mrs. Sully opened the door for her with the same warm and tender smile. She's not right for mother not to be a mother. . . . and she thought, in a sudden mutiny. "She ought to see . . ."

"It's all right now, my pet, now that you're home again. But you see—all night and all day—Lew wish you'd let me know, pet."

"Mother! Darling, I didn't mean to worry you so."

"I know, my pet. It's all right now."

She patted the girl's cheek, looking at her with weary, dark eyes.

"There's a telegram for you, Esme, my lambie."

Esme, in her life had Esme had a telegram and it alarmed her. She tore open the yellow envelope.

"Can you dine with us this evening seven—seven? Please telephone home, Mandeville."

"CLAUDE COWLEY."

"Esme! What is it, dearie? Bad news?"

"I—well, it's an invitation to dinner, mother."

Heroic Girl, 14, Saves Grandfather From Dog

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 31.—(UP)—A brave 14-year-old girl whose hair-trigger thought and action saved her grandfather's life while adults stood by paralyzed with fright, today was proposed for a Carnegie hero medal.

Dolly Evelyn Hollaway, 14, saved her grandfather, Thomas Brooks, from a bulldog which attacked him viciously on the street. After biting the aged man several times and knocking him to the ground, the beast was charging for the prostrate man's throat when the girl lighted a bundle of papers, pushed them at the dog's head and drove it away.

Several spectators made no attempt to intervene in the drama. (Geffen will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.)

Mrs. Vajda, a native of Hungary, was stricken ill May 23 as she worked in her flower garden at home. She was intensely interested in garden work and was a member of several clubs. Her husband is the designer for the Crescent Manufacturing Company and is widely known as a civic leader.

A resident of Atlanta for the last 10 years, Mrs. Vajda formerly resided in New York city. She is survived by her husband, a son, Edward R. Vajda, a member of the staff of the H. Mendenhall Company, and a daughter, Miss Lillian Frances Vajda, who is connected with the Fulton National bank.

Dannals were other young golfers who made the top flight. Most of these boys will enter this year's tournament, along with Jess Rainwater Jr., of New Orleans and Tulane University, and anyone of them may slip through to win the title. Rainwater, the Southern conference champion, is playing well and will be a real threat.

DEMOCRATS DENY FIGHT ON BARKLEY

Snell Meanwhile Reiterates Prediction of "Liberal" Prohi Stand.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Political advisers of Franklin D. Roosevelt today denied emphatically that any suggestion had been made to or emanated from the Roosevelt camp that Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, be displaced as keynote at the democratic convention because of his vote for a coal tariff.

Louis Howe, one of Roosevelt's political lieutenants, who came here with James A. Farley, the New York governor's pre-convention manager, for conferences at the capitol, entered the denial and added neither he nor Farley was here to discuss that question.

Representative Snell, of New York, slated for permanent chairman of the republican convention, today reiterated to newspapermen a prediction that the platform of his party would be "liberal" on prohibition.

He said while he was expressing his own opinion, "if anybody tells you the platform won't be liberal don't believe them."

Snell has voted consistently in support of dry measures. Asked what he meant by "liberal," he said the prohibition declaration would be "satisfactory."

After the senate's recent vote on the tariff items in the revenue bill, reports were published that some of Roosevelt's supporters became concerned over Barkley's vote for a coal levy in view of the fact that he had denounced the Hawley-Smoot act and had been chosen to expose the party's lower tariff cause at Chicago.

Farley and Howe did not see Senator Barkley today. They established headquarters in the office of Senator Hull, of Tennessee, and conferred with Hull and Senators Dill, Washington, and Cohen, Georgia. Convention committee assignments and other details were talked over, but no decision reached.

Howe said there had been no discussion here or in New York as yet regarding the man to make the Roosevelt nominating speech. It has been reported in New York that Senator Wagner, of that state, may be given the assignment, but Howe said no one had been proposed so far.

Farley predicted that Roosevelt would go into the convention with 675 votes and the 95 additional required for a nomination would be forthcoming from favorite son states in time to put Roosevelt over before the first ballot is announced.

FOUR ARE RECOVERING FROM CRASH INJURIES

Two persons were recovering at Georgia Baptist hospital and two others were released from Piedmont hospital Tuesday after receiving treatment for injuries sustained in two auto crashes near Atlanta Monday afternoon.

E. A. Murray Jr., a salesman of St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Mary Louise, of New York, received sprains, fractures and bruises when the car in which they were riding sideswiped an auto driven by Mrs. Imogene Mason, 559 North Highland avenue, N. E., on the Covington road below Decatur. The vehicle overturned twice and the injured girl, who said she was an artist hitch-hiking her way to Canton, and Murray were picked up by passing motorists and taken to Georgia Baptist hospital. Both were reported as on the road to recovery Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. Couch, of Marietta, and her daughter, Miss Cora Couch, were released from Piedmont hospital Tuesday morning after spending the night there for treatment of bruises and cuts sustained when the car in which they were riding near Hampton was struck by a truck. The party was returning from Wesleyan College where Miss Cora Couch had graduated. Mr. Couch and Miss Elizabeth Couch, who also were in the car, were only slightly injured.

OGLETHORPE CREDITS HELD NOT APPROVED

Another board of education battle over recognition of Oglethorpe University credits was won Tuesday afternoon following approval of a change in the rules of the board Tuesday afternoon by the rules committee, of which Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson is chairman.

Action of the committee also is in conflict with an assertion of J. Ira Harrelson, president of the board, who already has issued orders that credits from Oglethorpe be accepted in conformity with a survey of the institution by state agencies in which the state board recognized the university as an accredited school.

Mrs. Nelson's committee approved a proposal of Dr. Norb Baird, seventh ward school commissioner, which provides that, although a survey has been made, the state has not yet set up an accrediting agency, and that the board is not bound by its credits until such time as the machinery for accrediting schools is set up.

Dr. Thorneil Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe; Edgar Watkins Sr., chairman of the board of trustees; and other officials of the university contend that the city board is bound under the law to accept the state credits, and the controversy may find its way into the courts.

RED CROSS COMPLETES TASKS IN SOUTHEAST

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 31.—(AP)—The National Red Cross has written finish to its tornado rehabilitation work in the southeast.

Dr. William Dekline, medical adviser in charge of hospitalization of victims of the March storms in Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia, completed his final tour of inspection last night and was en route to Washington today.

"Of 714 patients hospitalized in the southeast, all but 21 have been dismissed, and of the 46 hospitals in these states that cared for disaster patients, only seven will have patients left June 1," Dr. Dekline said.

TARDILY SIGNED BILL WILL BE PAID BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(UPI)—The supreme court today held that President Hoover had the power to sign acts of congress after final adjournment of congress.

The ruling was made in the case of Thomas C. Edwards, of Texas, who was awarded the compensation for pay he supplied a Texas army post during the war in a bill passed just before the seventy-first congress adjourned March 4, 1931.

President Hoover signed the bill March 5, but the government refused to pay the claim. The court of claims held the act was invalid and signed tardily.

General Electric Employees Hold an Educational Rally To Promote Sales of Labor-Saving Appliances in Home

Executives and other employees of General Electric and its Atlanta affiliations met at an employees' rally in the sales room of the W. D. Alexander Company Tuesday afternoon, when a new sales plan looking to the distribution of labor-saving appliances was explained to them by officials. Under this plan both the agents and the employees will profit. More than 300 people attended the meeting. The picture shows them assembled in the Alexander sales room. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Employees of the General Electric Company and its affiliates in Atlanta, numbering more than 300, met at a G. E. employees' rally in the sales room of the W. D. Alexander Company Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

This plan was formulated by dealers in G. E. products. Briefly it provides a way for employees to promote sales for the dealers, and in such a way that such co-operation will be profitable.

The whole trend of the meeting was educational, so that the employees were equipped for one concentrated movement showing the public the advantages of labor-saving appliances in the home.

General Electric Company, presided as chairman of the meeting. Other speakers were W. D. Alexander, president of the W. D. Alexander Company; Tom Moore, division manager, incandescent lamp department, General Electric Company; W. T. Christy, district manager, Edison General Electric Appliance Company, and George D. Adair, district appliance salesman, General Supply Corporation.

MRS. CYRUS CURTIS DIES IN PHILADELPHIA

Publisher, Ill in Jefferson Hospital, Is Reported Recovering.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, wife of the Philadelphia publisher, died in Jefferson hospital early today.

Mrs. Curtis, who had been suffering from heart trouble for several years, had been in the hospital a short time.

Mr. Curtis, who suffered an attack of indigestion in New York last week, is also in Jefferson hospital and was reported to be recovering.

Mrs. Curtis, who was the second wife of the publisher, died on the anniversary of her marriage in 1881 to her first husband, the late Harrison M. Pillsbury, of Muskegon, Mich. She is survived by two daughters and nine grandchildren. Her daughters are Mrs. John C. Martin, the former Alice Wedgwood Pillsbury, wife of John C. Martin, general manager of the Curtis-Martin Newspapers, Inc., and Mrs. Pearson Wells, of Detroit, who before her marriage was Helen Cutler Pillsbury.

Suspect in Old Death Surrenders for Hearing

LITTLETON, N. C., May 31.—(AP)—Henry Gurkin, for years a fugitive from justice, has returned here to settle charges against his name in connection with a 10-year-old murder.

Gurkin, indicted as an accessory before the fact in the murder of Thomas Shaw, living 12 miles from here, surrendered to Roanoke Rapids police after escaping years ago while under bond on the charge. On May 3, 1912, Shaw, a well-known farmer and country merchant, was shot down as he sat on the porch of his home. He lived several hours but was unable to say who shot him.

TWO WOMEN CAUGHT TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

NEW ORLEANS, May 31.—(AP)—Two women, alleged rum-runners, were arrested here today and charged before the United States commissioner with attempting to transport liquor from New Orleans to Kansas City after they had been arrested on a highway north of the city in a Missouri-licensed coupe containing 16 cases of whisky.

A car containing two men, following the coupe, was seized along with 30 cases of liquor, when the two men abandoned it and escaped across a field when federal agents stopped the two young women.

The women said they were Margaret Alkins, 29, and Opal Smith, 23, both of Kansas City.

Officers quoted Miss Alkins as saying Miss Smith was innocent of any complicity, but asserting that she herself had been "in the racket of running liquor between New Orleans and Kansas City for some time."

LANG LOSES APPEAL AGAINST COURT RULING

LONDON, May 31.—(AP)—The judicial committee of the privy council today dismissed the appeal of Premier J. T. Lang, of New South Wales, against the decision of the New South Wales supreme court preventing the abolition of the state's legislative council.

FOUR AWAIT DEATH AS APPEALS FAIL IN HOLDUP SLAYING

NEW ORLEANS, May 31.—(AP)—While officials made ready for their execution tomorrow, four bank bandits tonight kept up their spirits in a condemned row by singing old songs.

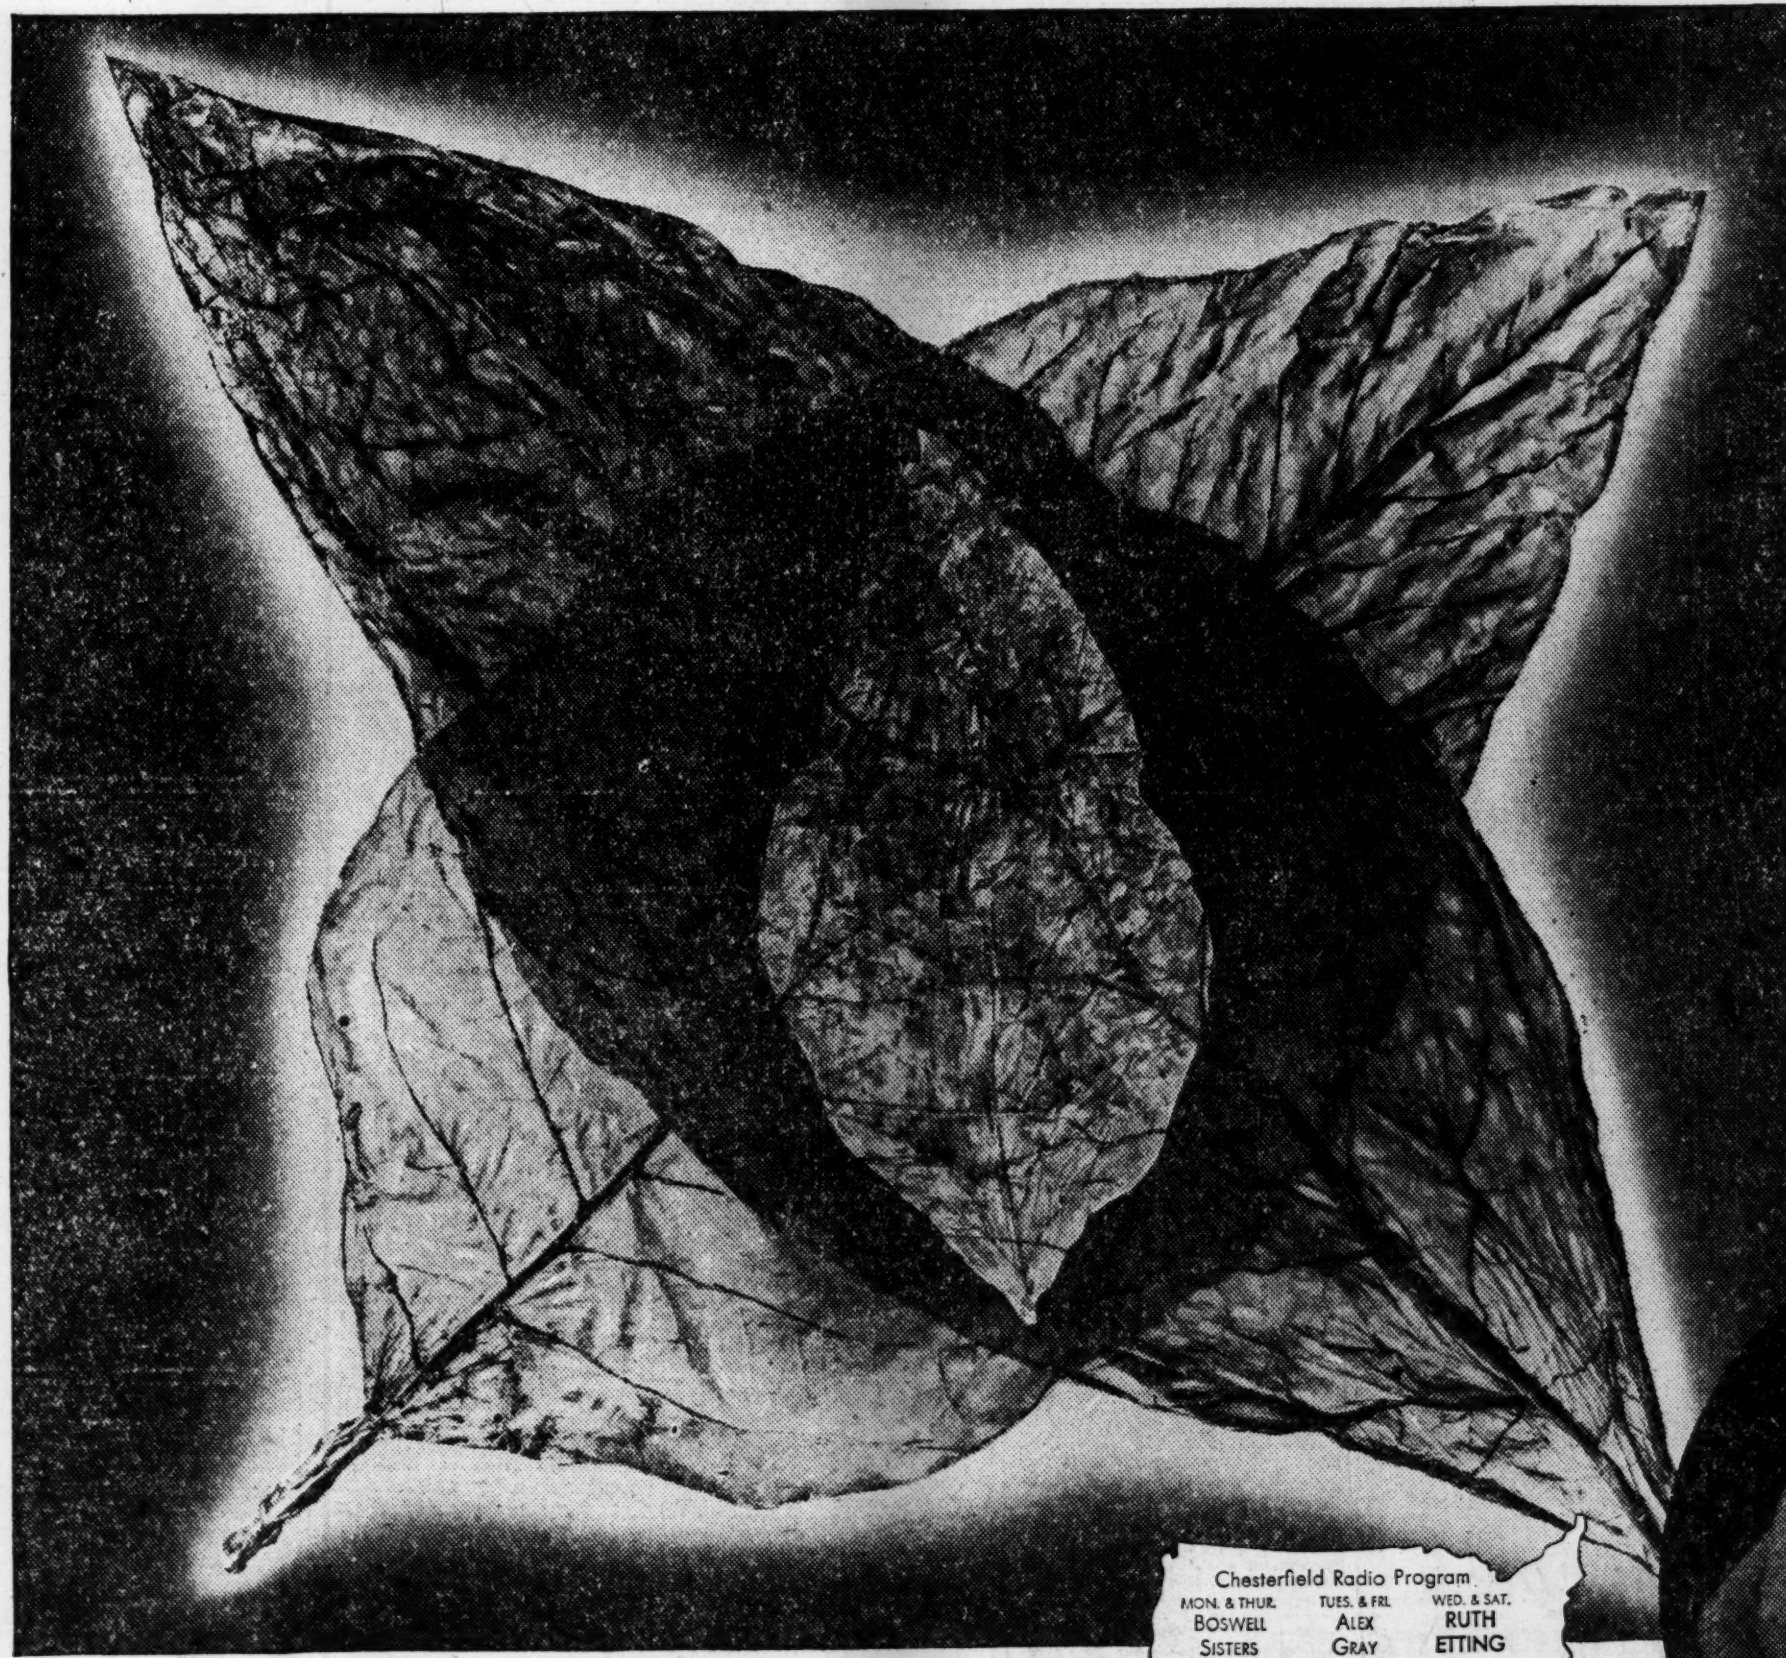

"Harvest Moon" was the quartet's favorite, which was mixed with mother songs and spirituals. They will hold hope of a last-minute reprieve despite a statement today by Governor O. K. Allen that he would not interfere.

Attorneys for the four men sought to obtain a stay of execution by presenting an anonymous letter saying that a policeman and not the bandits killed Raymond Rizzo, a grocer, whose slaying brought sentence to the gallows against George O'Day, Donald Rylich and Herman Taylor, of Chicago, and Ito Jacques, a New Orleans negro, after they had robbed a bank. The anonymous writer said Rizzo's widow had said a policeman had killed her husband.

Three Minute Relief From Your Headache

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B. C.," a reliable, pleasant-to-take remedy. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relieving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—(adv.)

It's as though the tobaccos were "welded" together....

"CROSS-BLENDING" means much more than just mixing tobaccos together.

It "welds" together different kinds of the several varieties of tobacco... many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco.

THIS "WELDING" TOGETHER—or Cross-Blending—permits every kind of tobacco used in the Chesterfield blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. Each tobacco is thus made to yield its finest flavors.

CROSS-BLENDING takes all these pleasing flavors and aromas and combines them into one—the Chesterfield taste. And we think you will agree that it is a far better taste... worth all the extra care that Chesterfield takes to get it.

EVERYTHING that money can buy and that science knows about is done to make CHESTERFIELD milder and taste better.

Decatur High P-T. A. Gives Entertainment.

Annual junior-senior dance of Decatur High school was held under the auspices of the P-T-A. at Avondale Club Saturday evening and assembled 150 students. The dance was preceded by a buffet supper, served by Mrs. M. K. Harrison, chairman of the junior division of class mothers, assisted by Mesdames J. A. Tilly, J. K. Murre, R. L. Wallace, J. A. Coxwell, Guy Hudson and S. B. Hoag. Members of the school faculty, and invited and chaperones were Mesdames H. B. Earhman, Max Flynn, C. D. Honiker, R. L. Wallace and Professor and Mrs. O. L. Ameler. Mrs. Harrison was assisted in entertaining by Misses Minnie Barrett, Adna Bostwick, Sarah Louise Head and Margaret Eakes. A lounge was arranged by Mary Gillespie, president of the juniors, was rendered by Dick Smoot, who sang two solos, with Willard Earle Field playing the piano accompaniment, and Kathleen Elkin, dancer, with her accompanist, Pauline Henkel. Lanier Bishop, a 1931 graduate of the school, furnished the dance music.

Lillian Mae Patterns

DELIGHTFUL CONTRAST.

A charming way of combining two fabrics whether they be prints, plain colors or both. Here the gracefully draped bodice, top, belt bow and flared cuffs are fashioned of light blue sheer crepe, and the print has dark blue and black designs on a light blue ground. The scalloped seamings are especially attractive.

Pattern 2347 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 2-1/4 yards of 39-inch print, 1 yard plain fabric. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted. Your summer wardrobe can be planned easily and inexpensively with the assistance of our current 32-page Fashion Catalog. The best of the season's afternoon, sports and evening frocks, lingerie, house dresses and "kiddie" models all personally chosen, made available through this beautiful book. Send for your copy today. Price of Catalog, 15 cents.

good conclusion. Was it not H. G. Wells who said: "Thinking about a subject is useless exercise, unless you think it out." Your husband has not deliberately set about to do a thing that makes his wife unhappy. He may have taken the first drinks deliberately but deliberation plays no part in his present scheme. He is caught in a trap from which he cannot extricate himself. It was a trap of his own making but it is no less a trap. The fact is that he is caught. And this knowledge, together with the consciousness that he is sinning against you and his children, making you unhappy and shaming them, is responsible for his demanding attention and show of affection.

A woman who has had broad experience with drinking men tells me that everyone of them wants the center of the stage when he is drinking, wants to stand in the middle of the circus ring and pop the whip over the heads of all those that come near. He wants to be the center of the show, to be the center of the show. She tells me, too, that anybody living in the house with a drinking man can never accomplish anything when he is drunk, because he demands the complete attention of his housemates day and night, he wants to talk, to excuse himself, and to accuse others. He wants to justify himself to others, because he condemns himself and knows others condemn him.

If you persuade him to take a drink cure, it would be well. But to convince him that he needs the cure is a problem and then to convince him that he owes it to his family is another problem. In fact everything in connection with the drunkard and the drunkard's family is a problem.

Don't allow yourself to be frightened by his threats to put you out. That is the last thing he desires when he is sober, and when he is drunk he is impotent to do it. If he has property the courts would secure it to you, if he did put you out, and if he has only his salary there is every reason why you should stay where you are and profit by it and see that your children get the benefit of it.

But this is not enough; a woman married to a drinking man has to face the ugly fact that unless the habit is checked, unless the man can get a grip on himself, both his physical and moral stamina will be steadily reduced until health is gone and will power is dissolved in alcohol. Greedily enough, the craving that alcohol sets up in the blood sweeps everything before it, love, honor, self-respect, and the victim becomes one of the most pitiable objects in the world. It is possible for the cure to be effected. It is essential that this be accomplished early in the game. The wife can use compulsion. She should try persuasion to the limit in the husband's sober hours, for he alone is master of the situation. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Style by Annette

SLIMMING, GRACEFUL AND YOUTHFUL.

Here's a delightful model, full of charm for summery wear.

A caped skirt covers the sleeveless arms in a modest manner. And don't you think the skirt is smart with its slimming bias hip lines?

To make it! Cut it out and you'll finish it in less time than it would take to shop for one that is as smart as this model.

It is carried out in a triple sheer print.

Tub silk in white or pastel, voile prints, sheer dotted batiste and sheer linen prints are dainty and cool suggestions.

Style No. 519 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, 96, 98, 100.

Our Summer Fashion Magazine will help you economize. It includes styles for the miss, the stout, the matron and adorable models for the kiddies. Also modern embroidery for the home, lingerie, pajamas, etc.

Price of book, 15 cents. Price of pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Photo Used Against Stiffkey Rector Chief Farr Acquitted In Shooting of Wood

LONDON, May 31.—(AP)—The mother of a 15-year-old girl who posed in the near-nude with the Rev. H. F. Davidson, of Stiffkey, came to the defense of the accused rector at his ecclesiastical trial for immorality today.

She said the photograph of the girl and the rector introduced by the prosecution was obtained fraudulently, and agreed with the Rev. Mr. Davidson that he was trapped into posing.

The picture shows the minister holding a shawl rather ineffectively against the form of the girl. The prosecution contended that it was proof that the rector was somewhat indiscreet.

The mother testified that she had asked the rector to be present when a photograph of her daughter was taken for use in an advertisement in the United States.

She had stipulated, she said, that her daughter was not to be photographed in the nude, and put her in Mr. Davidson's care to that end. The pastor had testified also, that the mother was present when the photograph was taken.

The case, which was heard before Judge Virlyn B. Moore for two days, went to the jury after almost 60 witnesses had testified. The jury returned a verdict after an hour's deliberation. Farr claimed self-defense, asserting that he fired only after he had been fired upon and that he was attempting to arrest Wood on a disorderly conduct charge. The law firm of Murrell & Murrell and Dorsey Davis defended Farr and introduced evidence tending to show that the bullet taken from Wood's neck was a .32-caliber and that the pistol carried by Chief Farr was a .38 police special.

NEW THRILLS TO EUROPE

On the St. Lawrence Seaway route you discover a new travel adventure. Picture-book towns parade by on either hand. Always... on these happy ships... there is something new to look at, something gay and pleasant to do!

And without added cost, you see Montreal and Québec on your way. Sailing from these two great inland seaports, in the heart of America, you are actually 315 miles nearer than New York to Europe. Cherbourg, Southampton lie due east... only 3 to 4 days of open ocean away according to vessel.

Compare the sailings... the rates... the speed. Remember that Canadian Pacific's modern fleet is led by that size-speed-SPACE marvel, Empress of Britain. Study the St. Lawrence Seaway booklet. ## COMMISSION SEEKS STRONGER CRUSADE AGAINST LYNCHING

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—The commission on race relations of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, reviewing the 10 years of its activity in its annual report today, recommends a more intensive crusade against lynching, establishment of race relations committees in every community having a negro population, and an extension of the program for economic justice.

Hereafter each lynching will be studied by an expert sent by the Federal Council, the report says, and an analysis made of the causes and circumstances.

Conditions of life in the cotton-growing states of Alabama, Arkansas, and Mississippi are now being studied by Dr. Benson Y. Landis, associate director of the council, in the annual report of research and education, and the results of this study are expected to be made public this fall. These will include the relations of the negro farming population to the land, to their white landlords and to the white population in general.

Allying to alleged discrimination against negroes, Mexicans and other racial minority groups in the matter of unemployment relief and emergency work, the report says the present economic situation has made it "increasingly clear that racial discrimination at such times not only places a heavier burden on the already handicapped racial groups, but that it increases the liability of the whole community for these groups."

The commission reported it had aided negro farmers throughout the drought-stricken areas of the southwest by helping them obtain seed, feed and fertilizer loans from congress.

POISON VICTIM LEAVES COLUMBUS HOSPITAL

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 31.—(AP)—Miss Helen Kilgore, 23, one of two young women who took poison at a hotel here Sunday night, was discharged from the city hospital late Monday afternoon, but Miss Bobbie Lee Marsh, 26, was still confined to the hospital Tuesday. Although her condition was considered serious, it is believed she will recover.

A note, evidently written by one of the two young women, was found by police in the hotel room Monday. It said: "We love each other but we can't live on love. Be sure to bury us together."

"Helen and Bobbie Lee. 'Nobody' is responsible but us."

Soon Komodo-floren emerged. "The burrow is deserted," he said. One by one they disappeared into the hole, until Tarzan stood alone in the night. It seemed ridiculous to him to be hiding from Numa in the burrow of some little animal.

As he stood there smiling, the diadems, standing near unathletic, snorted and leaped away. Tarzan wheeled to face a lion that towered over the great cat sprang he turned and dove head-first down the hole of the cambion.

Three days the six traveled east. Upon the fourth they turned south. A great forest loomed upon the horizon beyond which was the city of the Ant diadems. Tarzan often wondered what rest the creatures obtained.

The fourth day's afternoon, they saw a small cloud of dust far to their rear. All six watched it in amazement as it increased in size and drew nearer. "We can reach the forest before they overtake us," said Orathar. "Oh, not that!" cried the princess.

Text of President's Address Asking Emergency Taxation

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—The full text of President Hoover's address to the senate follows:

"An emergency has developed in the last few days which it is my duty to lay before the senate."

"The continued down movement in the economic life of the country has been particularly accelerated during the past few days and it relates in part definitely to the financial program of the government."

"There can be no doubt that super-imposed upon other causes the long continued delays in the passage of legislation providing for such reduction in expenditures and such addition to revenues as would balance the budget, together with proposals of projects which would greatly increase governmental expenditures, have given rise to doubt and anxiety as to the ability of our government to meet its responsibilities."

"These fears and doubts have been foolishly exaggerated in foreign countries. They know from bitter experience that the course of unbalanced budgets is the road of ruin. They do not realize that slow as our processes may be we are determined and have the resources to have the financial of the United States on an unsalable basis."

"Run on Dollar."

"The immediate result has been to create an entirely unjustified run upon the American dollar from foreign countries, and within the past few days, despite our national wealth and resources, our dollar stands at a discount in the markets of the world for the first time in half a century."

"No one has a more sympathetic realization than I of the difficulties and complexities of the problem with which the congress is confronted. The decrease in revenues due to the depression by upwards of $1,700,000,000 and the consequent necessity to reduce governmental expenditures, the sacrifice of the remaining burden of the debt, and the further strain upon already diminished and strained economic life of the country."

mates of the taxes required and reductions of expenses needed have been repeatedly increased, but on the other hand, it should be borne in mind that if tax and economy legislation recommended from time to time since last December had been promptly enacted there would have been less depression and stagnation in the country. But it is unprofitable to re-examine such questions. We must face the situation as it exists today."

Many Suggestions.

In the course of the six months during which the revenue bill has been considered in the house and senate practically every form of tax has been suggested at one time or another. Many have found their way into the bill later to be rejected."

The total amount congress originally set out to obtain has been gradually whittled down either by actual reductions or degeneration of the situation while needs have increased."

If we examine the major sources of possible increases in taxes now proposed and the nature of taxes already in effect, it will be seen that the income taxes have already been raised to the point of diminishing returns through avoidance which will ensue before the tax can be collected and are already as high as to approach the danger point in retardation of enterprise."

It is advisable that more relief should be given to earned incomes. Nor will further increases in income tax even including the proposals of Senator Connally cover the gap in our revenues or provide against any failure to reduce expenses to the full amount we have stated."

The senate has already imposed a multitude of specific manufacturers' excise taxes on special industries, exclusive of the general excise taxes and unduly in their productivity."

No General Sales Tax.

I have not, and do not, favor a general sales tax which has not been proposed by the treasury."

A sales tax is not, however, to be confused with an extension of the special manufacturers' excise taxes to a general manufacturers' excise tax with exemptions of food and clothing. This is an entirely different tax from a so-called sales tax and cannot be pyramided. Even this general manufacturers' excise tax has not been proposed by the treasury, although it is recommended by the ways and means committee of the house, representing the views of the majority of the members in the house of representatives, the secretary of the treasury accepted it in the hope that immediate passage of the bill would result."

In order, however, to solve our problem and give assurance to the country as to the world of the impracticability of the American dollar and that we are ready to meet our obligations at any sacrifice, I have now proposed a tax which is a limited period of the most special excise taxes to a more general manufacturers' excise tax and will support the remaining burden of the debt."

Whether this be the course or not, some further emergency tax sources should be incorporated in the pending bill."

Relief Problem.

Our third problem is that of relief. The sharp degeneration has its many causes and its many victims. It is our people. I hold that the maintenance of the sense of individual and personal responsibility of men to their neighbors and the proper separation of functions of the federal and local governments requires the maintenance of adequate funds for the relief of the obligation of distress rests upon the individuals, upon the communities and upon the states."

Methods Proposed.

The finance committee has been advised that the setbacks of the past month now make it evident that if we are to have absolute assurance of the needed income with breadth of base which would make a certainty of the collections we must face additional tax to those now proposed by the senate finance committee."

I recognize the complaint that estimates of the taxes required and reductions of expenses needed have been repeatedly increased, but on the other hand, it should be borne in mind that if tax and economy legislation recommended from time to time since last December had been promptly enacted there would have been less depression and stagnation in the country. But it is unprofitable to re-examine such questions. We must face the situation as it exists today."

Many Suggestions.

In the course of the six months during which the revenue bill has been considered in the house and senate practically every form of tax has been suggested at one time or another. Many have found their way into the bill later to be rejected."

The total amount congress originally set out to obtain has been gradually whittled down either by actual reductions or degeneration of the situation while needs have increased."

If we examine the major sources of possible increases in taxes now proposed and the nature of taxes already in effect, it will be seen that the income taxes have already been raised to the point of diminishing returns through avoidance which will ensue before the tax can be collected and are already as high as to approach the danger point in retardation of enterprise."

It is advisable that more relief should be given to earned incomes. Nor will further increases in income tax even including the proposals of Senator Connally cover the gap in our revenues or provide against any failure to reduce expenses to the full amount we have stated."

The senate has already imposed a multitude of specific manufacturers' excise taxes on special industries, exclusive of the general excise taxes and unduly in their productivity."

No General Sales Tax.

extending such a program and that of financing an even larger program of employment. The productive works through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

We are indeed all desirous of serving the welfare of the people in such a fashion that we do not increase the ranks of unemployed."

I may emphasize that this alternative program avoids drain upon the taxpayer and above all if we are to balance our budget and balance it in such fashion that our people and the world may know it is balanced, we cannot make further appropriations in any direction beyond the amounts now before the congress."

Conference Needed.

I am confident that if the congress could find in these suggestions which come from members of both parties a ground for adjustment of legislation on those dominant particulars and could bring it into immediate action the relief of the people would be assured. The natural wealth of this country is well beyond the needs of the nation and the inherent ability of our people to meet their problems are being restrained by failure of the government to act."

Time for the moment. Every day's delay makes new wounds and extends them."

I come before you in sympathy with the difficulties which the problem presents and in a sincere spirit of helpfulness. I ask of you to accept such a basis of practical adjustment essential to the welfare of our people."

In your hands at this moment is the answer to the question whether democracy has the capacity to act speedily enough to save itself in emergency."

The nation urgently needs unity. It needs solidarity before the world in demonstrating that America has the courage to look its difficulties in the face and the capacity and resolution to meet them."

ATLANTA ALUMNI OF VANDERBILT U. HEARS DR. MIMS

The management of a modern university under present-day conditions was the subject of an address by Dr. William H. Miller, president of the Atlanta Alumni of Vanderbilt University, at a meeting of the Atlanta alumni of Vanderbilt Tuesday night at which officers of the next year were elected. The meeting, a joint celebration of Dr. Mims' 60th birthday and of Founder's Day, was held at the Atlanta Club."

Hamilton Douglas Jr., outgoing president of the chapter, presided and presented Dr. Mims with a leather traveling bag in behalf of the chapter. Rembert Marshall, well-known attorney, was elected to succeed Dr. Douglas as president, and Dr. Tom Conner, Atlanta banker, was re-elected as secretary and treasurer."

The increasing influence of Vanderbilt University in Georgia and the increasing interest of the alumni in the school were among the points touched upon by the speaker, who was introduced by Mr. Douglas."

The well-known professor, author of "The Advancing South," delivered the commencement address Tuesday morning before the graduating class of Agriculture College. Following his address before the alumni, he returned to Nashville. More than 40 members of the Atlanta chapter attended the banquet."

MANILA, June 1.—(Wednesday).—An intercepted S O S early today from the British freighter Daisy Hall, reported a serious fire aboard the ship. The message said the freighter was proceeding at full speed toward Zamboanga, south Philippines, and asked that the fire be put out on hand to board the ship along with the regular harbor pilot."

The vessel did not give her position, but it was believed she was in Philippine waters."

Atlanta U. Leases Building On Campus to Morris Brown

Undergraduate Department Will Be Taken Over in September; Ident- ities Not To Be Merged.

Morris Brown University, upon the opening of school in September, will occupy the campus and buildings formerly used by the undergraduate department of the Atlanta University, it was announced Tuesday following a meeting of the Morris Brown board of trustees. Agreement to lease the grounds to Morris Brown carried the condition that the latter institution keep up the grounds and buildings used. The two schools will maintain separate identity under the agreement, though faculty members will interchange between the two.

In his report, President W. A. Fountain, of Morris Brown, outlined in detail the reason for this change of base of operation.

"The physical plant at the present location has long since been inadequate," he said. "It not only is too small, but is otherwise unsatisfactory. That the accrediting agencies would not give Morris Brown class 'A' rating as long as it remained in the present overcrowded and congested quarters. "The board of trustees of Atlanta University agreed to lease to the board of trustees of Morris Brown college the buildings formerly occupied by Atlanta University undergraduate school, provided the trustees of Morris Brown college would agree to keep the buildings and grounds in good condition. Through the transfer, Morris Brown's proximity to Atlanta University graduate school will provide an opportunity for an exchange of faculty which will go a long way toward obtaining for Morris Brown the classification it has striven to attain. There is no sacrifice of identity and property of the African Methodist Episcopal church in Georgia."

The school was founded some 50 years ago, with Bishop Dickerson serving as chairman of the trustees board. During these 50 years, it has been presided over by the following bishops: Bishops Dickerson, '80-'84; Shorter, '84-'88; Gaines, '88-'92; Grant, '92-'96; Turner, '96-'08; Smith, '08-'12; Flipper, '12-'24; Fountain, '24 to date.

During this half century approximately 1,300 young men and women have gone out as graduates and are distributed among various professions and vocations as follows: College presidents, 5; dentists, 30; doctors, 50; teachers, 600; businessmen, 200; musicians, 50; lawyers, 10; trained nurses, 100; and preachers, 250. The cost of operation has averaged $40,000 a year, which makes a grand total of $2,000,000, all but approximately $25,000 of which has been raised by negroes.

STRANGE DISEASE BRINGS SLEEPING AFTER EXCITEMENT

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP)—A queer disease called narcolepsy, which Dr. S. Bernard Wortis, of New York city, pointed out to the public, is said to fall asleep after a girl in a taxi cab, was discussed last night at the opening session of the American Psychiatric Association's 88th annual convention.

Victims of narcolepsy, Dr. Wortis said, very often fall asleep after hearing a story. The physician stated, usually has the effect of putting the victim soundly to sleep for a few moments after any emotional strain. Studies thus far, the physician stated, have failed to locate the spot in the brain which controls the attacks. "Today, May 31, the physician stated, will officially welcome the delegates, and Dr. William L. Russell, of White Plains, N. Y., president of the association, will deliver his annual message. The convention continues until Saturday.

HONOLULU, May 31.—(AP)—Joseph Young, 29, a Korean, today was convicted of criminal assault on a Chinese high school girl and sentenced to a maximum of 35 years in prison Judge A. M. Crilly, today. The prison board will determine the exact length of the sentence.

LEE, RAMSEY TO GO ON TRIAL JANUARY 9

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 31.—(AP)—Colonel Luke Lee, Nashville publisher, and J. B. Ramsey, former Knoxville banker, will go on trial in federal court here January 9 on charges growing out of the closing of the Holston Union National bank November 12, 1930.

Both appeared in federal court today and through their attorneys entered pleas of "not guilty" to the charges. Ramsey, middle-aged president of the failed bank, is charged with misapplying the bank's funds and a false entry while Lee, a stockholder in the bank, is charged with aiding and abetting him.

Their trial, originally set for today, recently was postponed by United States District Court Judge George Taylor on affidavit that Luke Lee Jr., a material witness, was physically unable to be present. Taylor's proceeding was to set a new date of trial and hear the defendants' pleas. Other indictments returned at Greenville, Tenn., in March, 1931, charging Lee, Ramsey and Rogers Caldwell, Nashville financier, with violation of the national banking laws in connection with the Knoxville bank, were dismissed in federal court last week.

City Club will hold its regular meeting at the Wineoff hotel at 12:30 o'clock today. Round table discussions on civic and county affairs will be continued.

"Modern Miracles as Instanced by Moxmar in 'The Conquering Man,'" will be the subject for discussion by the Wednesday study class of the South library, 506 Grand theater building, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Round trip excursion rates at one cent per mile traveled between all points on the Central of Georgia railway and points on certain participating connecting lines, will be offered June 18 in commemoration of the ninety-ninth anniversary of the charter, the first issued in 1833. The tickets will be good for return until June 26, and carry with them stopover and baggage checking privileges.

Rev. Jesse D. Booth, pastor of McKendree M. E. church, South, will be the featured speaker at the fact that on Saturday or Sunday, 445 Whitehall street; J. M. Strickland, 331 Madison street; George Batcler, 218 Pryor street; Lee Martin, 445 Whitehall street; W. G. Brown, 338 Crew street; David H. Perkins, 183 Fair street; Jack Powers, 82 Ivy street; and Mrs. D. D. Maddox, 1125 State street. Gwinnett was held in $500 bond, and the others, except Mrs. Maddox, in $100 bond.

Mrs. Maddox, who denied she was part of the "Black Shirt" crowd, was released on a copy of charges after being held several hours in police station, when it was learned she was in a delicate physical condition.

Charges against those arrested were for violating section 422 of the city ordinance, which leaves permission for assemblies and parades in the discretion of the mayor and city council. Gwinnett said the mayor told him that he had no law, but had followed the advice given him Monday by Mayor James I. Key to hold his meeting on the capital lawn, which Gwinnett said the mayor told him he had no permit. The leader said he had not, but had taken his members to the capital in four trucks.

The cases of the eight persons arrested are scheduled to be heard in recorder's court at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. A possibility exists that the recorder's court may take action toward citing Gwinnett for contempt of court. It was recalled that an order was signed by Mayor James I. Key on October 11, 1930, denying the American Fascist, Order of Black Shirts, organization from operating in this state.

Captain A. J. Holcombe, who first saw the four truckloads of "Black Shirts" turned out in the streets of the city with the result that every radio cruiser in the city met the would-be demonstrators at the capital.

Wilbur F. Glenn, son of T. K. Glenn, prominent Atlanta financier, president of the Georgia Tech Extension School, was at the annual dinner of the Cincinnati College of Law, from which he was graduated in 1932, in the same class with the late President William Howard Taft. Mr. Glenn is the second oldest attorney in Atlanta in point of service, the senior being Jack J. Spalding.

Transfer of $500 from the Jefferson street salary outfall to reconstruct the Palfox sewer was recommended Tuesday afternoon by the sewer committee. Council action will be contingent on approval by the bond commission as the fund was confined in the 1926 sewer bond issue.

Slight improvement in the condition of Judge O. H. R. Bloodworth, of the Georgia court of appeals, was reported Tuesday at the hospital where he has been under treatment since a sudden collapse early last week.

Mr. Meloy said the new standard will simplify methods by which growers may be paid for their seed on quality basis and will aid them in getting out arrangements made at the recent meeting in New Orleans of the National Cottonseed Producers Association, where members pledged themselves to pay for cottonseed on grade whenever as much as 10 tons is involved and to allow two weeks for delivery.

The committee recommended that of this amount $1,048,667 be apportioned to foreign missions; $550,333 to home mission; $260,000 to Christian education; $100,000 to relief; $800,000 for religious education and publication; $30,000 for the assembly training school; and $200,000 for the Bible cause.

COLORED NURSES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Samuel C. Dobbs, chairman of the board of trustees of Grady hospital, will preside at the graduation exercises to be held at Big Bethel church Thursday evening for senior grade nurses of the Municipal Training School for Colored Nurses of Grady. Dr. B. G. Dawson, pastor of the church, will deliver the invocation, and J. Frank Beck, chairman of hospitals and charities committee of city council, will deliver official greetings from the city of Atlanta.

Kendall Weisger, vice president of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, will make the principal address, and Dr. Thomas H. Slater also will speak to the graduating class. Diplomas in nursing will be presented by J. B. Franklin, superintendent of Grady, and by Mr. Dobbs, while Miss Annie Bess Feebeck, superintendent of Grady nurses, will present the class pins. Benediction will be pronounced by Dr. T. R. Kendall.

South Bend schoolhouse on Sawtelle road, was slightly damaged Tuesday afternoon by fire which started from trash around the stove in the basement, according to fire department records. The damage was confined to the basement. No one was in the building at the time, it was said.

Fulton grand jury Friday returned 24 true bills and three no-bills at its regular session. The bills included charges of perjury, bigamy, abandonment, assault with intent to murder, robbery, larceny after trust, burglary, forgery, larceny of auto, and several misdemeanors.

Richmond Hosiery Mills, of Rossville, Tuesday filed suit in federal court against J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, for refunds on tax collections over a period of years. They ask for a rebate of $5,151.45 with interest at 6 per cent.

County commissioners are slated to hold two meetings today. The first at 9:30 o'clock is a special meeting for consideration of the county fiscal grounds in behalf of the proposed $5,000,000 bond issue to relieve unemployment.

The arrested were H. J. Gwinnett, 125 East Lake terrace, who said he is "adjudged-general" of the national "Black Shirts"; J. M. Strickland, 331 Madison street; George Batcler, 218 Pryor street; Lee Martin, 445 Whitehall street; W. G. Brown, 338 Crew street; David H. ## 'HAVE NO APOLOGY TO MAKE'—GROVE

New Moderator Reiterates Advice to Ministers To Eschew Politics.

Asserting that he has no apology to make for his pre-election sermon before the general assembly in which he advised ministers not to take part in campaigns to defeat a presidential candidate, Moderator William Crowe, of the Presbyterian church in the United States, Tuesday reiterated his exhortation and amplified his attitude as the result of a telegram received from the Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association.

At the same time it became known that Dr. S. S. Daugherty, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Atlanta, who presided over the meeting of the Atlanta ministers at which the telegram was formulated, agreed heartily with the utterances of the newly-elected moderator.

Upon being informed of Dr. Crowe's refusal to apologize for his advice to ministers against "pulpit politics," Dr. Daugherty said:

"I agreed entirely with Dr. Crowe's original sermon, and I am wholly in accord with his statement before the general assembly Tuesday. It is exactly in line with the request made by the Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association Monday."

Mounting the rostrum a few hours before the general assembly of this body, which is the 72nd annual meeting at Montreal, N. C., Tuesday afternoon, the 70-year-old moderator acted emphatically on the Atlanta ministers' request that he make a ringing statement of the right and duty of the church to act in all matters of moral import.

The Atlanta ministers' telegram informed the moderator that the "Atlanta vet press" was making "constant and exultant use" of the moderator's warning against political action in the pulpit and that the local clergy of the Presbyterian church held that "gambling, slavery, marriage prohibition, war and other topics may interest politicians, but they are not, therefore, excluded from our thought as Christians."

Referring to the remarks by saying he offered "no apology whatever for the sermon mentioned," the elderly moderator said:

"I deeply regret that any misapprehension has been made of that part of the discourse that would cause any dismay for those noble men and women who are in the forefront of the battle for maintenance of any and every agency erected for the protection of the moral interests of the people."

Work of Christians Defined. "The business of the church of Jesus Christ, in so far as the concern of the church is involved, is to produce men of such character that, invested with power greater than human, they will be found in every moral issue, local and national, standing for the highest rights of men and for the glory of their God and the security of their state."

"The Presbyterian church in the United States believes in the casting down of everything that is evil, in the lifting up of everything that is right. It believes its most effective service can be rendered in sending forth into the world men and women who, under God, are able to stand up and say to embodied evil: 'Thus far shalt thou go and no farther.'"

Dr. Daugherty did not cast a vote when the motion introducing the telegram was made by Dr. L. M. Geachy, pastor of Deatur Presbyterian church. The telegram was approved without a dissenting vote and was read at the time. Dr. McGee Tuesday declined to comment further on the action, saying that the incident was closed so far as he was concerned.

In the original sermon delivered last Thursday before the general assembly elected him moderator of the church, Dr. Crowe had said that the church had no business "in its organized capacity to assume responsibility of electing any candidate for the presidency of the United States."

Committee Reports Adopted. Several committee reports, including that on the resolution on "Evangelism," were adopted by the assembly Tuesday with only slight changes.

The committee on stewardship and finance recommended that promotional committees be discontinued and their work combined with that of the committee on religious education, with headquarters at Atlanta, and on country churches, with headquarters at Richmond.

The consolidation is a part of the general economy program which would reduce the general assembly's budget from $2,500,000 this year to $2,000,000 for 1934-35.

Dr. Crowe recommended that of this amount $1,048,667 be apportioned to foreign missions; $550,333 to home mission; $260,000 to Christian education; $100,000 to relief; $800,000 for religious education and publication; $30,000 for the assembly training school; and $200,000 for the Bible cause.

GOV. ROOSEVELT. McNEIL DISCUSS CONVENTION PLAN

ALBANY, N. Y., May 31.—(AP)—Archibald McNeil, democratic national chairman from Connecticut, came to Albany today to receive from Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt his ideas on the organization and naming of temporary and permanent chairmen of the democratic national convention.

McNeil, whose fight to give Connecticut's 16 delegates to Roosevelt at the Chicago convention in June went down under the strength of the delegates at Chicago, said he believed it was "generally conceded" that Roosevelt would control the majority of the delegates at Chicago. Because of this, McNeil said, he believed Roosevelt should be consulted on the arrangements for the convention.

The Connecticut man, a member of the committee on arrangements at the national convention, said he came to Albany at the invitation of Governor Roosevelt.

He referred newspapermen who questioned him to Mr. Roosevelt, but the governor laughingly insisted the visit was "just a social call." The New York governor reacted in a similar manner when asked for the name of Joseph Shouse, "commended" by the committee on arrangements for the convention.

McNeil said Shouse has been identified by political experts as a member of the camp hostile to Roosevelt.

McNeil, a political friend of Roosevelt for 25 years, said he felt it was "perfectly proper, as a member of the committee on arrangements, to be correctly and fully informed of Governor Roosevelt's desires in the organization of the convention."
